TROOPS PLACED AT DISPOSAL OF CITY; RED CROSS IS BUSY

Woman Tells Story Of How Tornado Struck City

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The war department today formally issued orders placing the 1,000 troops in Jefferson Barracks at the disposal of St. Louis in patrolling the streets of the storm area.

General William Lassiter, commander of the sixth corps area, has left Chicago to take command of the troops. General Harry A. Smith, commander of the seventh corps area, Omaha, was ordered to co-operate with Lassiter.

The department was advised that Lassiter took action last night to move the soldiers to St. Louis.

Army equipment will be available to storm victims.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30—The storm hit the central district with the greatest fury leaving Sarah St. a tangle of wires to the northward.

The wires with their cross-circuits seemed to color the storm like flames.

"Thirty-five school children had just left after eating lunch and were on their way back to school" she said, "when all of a sudden it became dark. I went to the door. Suddenly the whole street seemed to be ablaze.

"I slammed the door, and held it shut fearing it would catch fire any minute.

"But the children, did they get safely to school?" The school officials report today indicated that by some miracle only a minimum of children suffered from the storm.

Earlier reports had Columbia, Ames, Yeatman, Marquette and Central school buildings slightly damaged, and about forty pupils in all slightly cut by flying glass or bruised.

The total damage to school buildings of the city may reach an estimated $1,000,000, according to Ben Weidle, president of the board of education.

A citizens' committee, hastily organized, was in full cooperation with the Red Cross today in collecting funds for relief work. Charge of this work has already been taken over by the St. Louis chapter of the organization.

Stations hastily improvised were providing shelter for about 5,000 storm victims, and the national guard armory by morning housed some 3,000 persons made homeless by the tornado.

From 600 to 1,000 members of the American Legion were out in the tornado-riddled area, helping in the work of rescue.

By noon today the devastated region was expected to be under the full control of the national guard.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 30.—Many St. Louis insurance men today estimated the damage from yesterday's tornado at $100,000,000 or more. One prominent underwriter said the damage by rain would be greater than wind damage.

The contents of buildings were damaged to the extent of $65,000,000, he asserted, by the torrential rain which followed the storm.

Other insurance men estimated the damage to be between $50,000,000 and $100,000,000.

A more conservative estimate was given by Charles M. Talbert, vice president of the Standard Underwriters' Agency here, who said $50,000,000 would cover the loss.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.— The national Red Cross is prepared to give every assistance possible to the storm sufferers of St. Louis if outside aid is requested, it was announced at headquarters today.

The national organization is waiting for further advices from St. Louis before sending aid. It is likely that Henry M. Baker, national director of Red Cross disaster relief, will go to St. Louis to help in rehabilitation work.

KOENNECKE PLANE FALLS AT BAGDAD

BAGDAD, IRAQ, Sept. 30.—Otto Koennecke's Cologne-to-San Francisco plane Germania crashed today while the German ace was trying to hop off for Basra. The machine was damaged but Koennecke and his two companions were not injured.

A dispatch received in Berlin yesterday from Bagdad carried a report that Koennecke had hopped off yesterday.

ACCUSED IN DEATH

MARGARET HOWARD DIES AFTER INTERURBAN CAR STRIKES SMALL SEDAN

Child's Mother, Mrs. Arthur Howard, And Two Other Children Injured—Woman Driver Did Not See Approaching Freight Car

Margaret Howard, 7, was killed, and her mother, Mrs. Arthur Howard, 33, and two brothers, Arthur Howard, Jr., 3 and James Thomas Howard, aged four months, Snively Road, south of Yellow Springs, were injured, not seriously, when their small sedan was wrecked by a southbound Springfield and Xenia interurban freight car at the Hyde Road crossing, two miles south of Yellow Springs, at 4:20 p. m. Thursday.

The girl, who was a student in the first grade at the Hyde School but had stayed home Thursday morning because of illness, sustained a fracture of the skull, both bones in the left leg were broken below the knee and she received a large cut on the scalp.

Her mother, who was driving the car, and the younger brother and infant child, suffered cuts and bruises, and the baby possible internal injuries, but all were able to be removed to their home on the Robert Leam farm, after receiving treatment from Dr. F. C. Adams, Yellow Springs. Margaret died as she was being carried into the physician's office.

All occupants of the automobile were thrown out of the car. Margaret occupied the rear seat holding the baby in her arms. The others sat in front.

Mrs. Howard was driving the three children to the Hyde school after another daughter, Charlotte Ruth, 13. She was quoted as saying that as she approached the crossing, she neither saw the car nor heard any warning whistle. The freight hit the rear end of the sedan.

Meanwhile, Charlotte Howard had left the school building in the company of a playmate, and having reached a small hill overlooking the crossing, saw the accident take place.

The body was brought to Dr. Adam's office by several men working in fields near the crossing. C. L. Monnett, working on a farm nearby, declared he heard screams and the crash but did not hear the traction whistle. He was one of the first to reach the scene of the accident, along with another farmer, Reo Ross.

Jacob Bowser, Emory, north of Yellow Springs, motorman on the freight car, said the car whistle was sounded. John Shaw was the brakeman. The body of the girl was taken to the Littleton Brothers funeral home at Yellow Springs.

Coroner Frank M. Chambliss, who investigated the accident and interviewed several eye-witnesses, announced his intention Friday of holding a verbal inquest as soon as possible to determine actual responsibility. Several witnesses will be summoned, he said. Mrs. Orpha Howard was near collapse at the office of Dr. Adams following the accident, but was reported in an improved condition Friday. Arthur Howard, the father, was working at home at the time of the accident.

Funeral services for Margaret Howard will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence, with burial in the Yellow Springs Cemetery.

GARY RACE SITUATION WORSE AS COUNCIL IGNORES DEMANDS

GARY, Ind., Sept. 30.—The strike of 1,500 Emerson High School students, protesting the presence in their school of twenty-four negroes, assumed greater proportions here today when the city council refused immediate action upon proposed erection of temporary school shelters for the colored pupils, and continued the hearing until Monday.

The city council flatly turned down the student council's proposal that the negroes be ousted immediately. A mass meeting scheduled in the school auditorium today, it is believed, will bring matters to a crisis.

The Emerson school strike has spread to surrounding schools and anti-negro feeling has manifested itself in the actions of Gary residents, police report.

Police squads continued to patrol the negro section with machine guns and no negro mass meetings are allowed to be held.

FRENCH CABINET PREPARES REPLY TO U. S. TARIFF RATE

Answer Will Be Conciliatory And Will Leave Way For Reply—France Will Argue For Reciprocity, Said

PARIS, Sept. 30.—The general terms of France's reply to the United States tariff note were drawn up today at a meeting of the cabinet at President Doumergue's home at Rambouillet. The reply will be conciliatory and, it is understood, will leave the way open for a rejoinder by Washington. The French document is expected to go to Washington early next week.

It is understood that France will argue for reciprocity, claiming that the United States should make tariff concessions to this country in return for tariff concessions from France.

The work of formulating the draft of the French communication was undertaken after Minister of Commerce Bokanowski made a long report upon the status of the commercial situation between this country and America.

A provisional decision was made that parliament shall reassemble October 18.

The ministers refused to say whether they had discussed Franco-Russian relations, which are somewhat strained over the revolutionary activities of the Soviet Envoy Rakovsky.

HORNSBY WILL FACE GAMBLING CHARGES

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—Rogers Hornsby, second baseman and field leader of the New York Giants, is going back to St. Louis to vindicate himself.

He is going back to clear himself of the charges that he neglected to pay alleged gambling debts. The case will come up in the St. Louis courts late in October.

"They offered to drop the case," he said today, "if I would agree to pay the legal expenses, but I refuse. I want this thing to be fought in the open so all the world may know the truth.

"As for the World's Series, I may see two of the games in Pittsburgh if the Pirates win the pennant, but after that I will go to St. Louis to spend the winter."

MORE QUAKES

MOSCOW, Sept. 30.—Two more severe earthquake shocks were felt in Crimea last night, but no casualties were reported, said a dispatch from Yalta today. The Crimean government is seeking several millions dollars for relief of earthquake sufferers and another million dollars in credit. The earthquake shocks in Crimea have been going on several weeks.

REPORT 23 DROWN IN MANILA TYPHOON

MANILA, Sept. 30—Twenty-three persons were drowned and thirteen others were missing in the towns of Carranglan and Pantabangan, province of Nueva Ecija, as the result of the typhoons of September 17 and 18, according to official reports received here today.

Seven additional deaths were reported from other points in central Luzon.

The mayor of the town of Baler, province of Tayabas, reported that no casualties occurred there, but said that 400 families were made homeless by the storm and estimated property damage amounted to $300,000. A Red Cross steamer has been sent to Baler with food supplies.

ENJOIN UNION FROM INTERFERING WITH PITTSBURGH MINES

Decision Of Federal Judge Most Severe Blow Since Strike

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 30.—The United Mine Workers of America suffered their worst defeat of the present bituminous coal strike when Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker today issued a temporary injunction restraining the union from interfering with operation of the Pittsburgh terminal coal corporation's non-union mines.

Granting of the temporary injunctions means that the United Mine Workers organization is restrained temporarily at least from picketing the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation's several mines in this region.

The Terminal Corporation is the largest union coal operator in the country to renounce the union and endeavor to operate its mines with non-union labor since the bituminous miners walked out on April 1, at the expiration of the Jacksonville wage agreement.

Philip Murray, international vice president of the miners union received first information that the injunction had been granted from International News Service.

"I will have to examine the injunction," Murray said, "before I can make any comment."

MOVE TO LIBERATE AMERICAN HELD BY FRENCH IS STARTED

Lawyer Pleads For Release Of Doty From Military

PARIS, Sept. 30.—A move was begun today to obtain the complete liberation of Bennett J. Doty, American member of the French Foreign Legion, who was released from an eight-year prison term for desertion on condition he complete the four years of his enlistment period in Africa. Doty is now enroute for Algeria to rejoin the Legion.

Doty's lawyer, Charles Campbell, in behalf of Doty's "old and infirm mother," presented a letter to Paul Painleve, chief of the cabinet, thanking him for his kindness in having Doty released from prison, but pointing out that the mother is grieved and disappointed over not seeing her boy. The letter begs the ministry to release Doty from serving the balance of his term of enlistment.

M. Painleve promised to have the case examined and, if it were found possible to release Doty without establishing a precedent, his release probably would be granted.

Following the interview between Campbell and the minister, the former told International News Service:

"I feel confident that Doty will be released soon."

HEAD OF FORTY AND EIGHT WILL SPEAK

A. E. Lile, Columbus, grand chef de gare of Ohio Voiture, Forty and Eight Society, auxiliary organization of the American Legion, will be the principal speaker at a special meeting of Greene County Voiture, No. 140, in the American Legion post hall at the Court House Saturday night at 8 o'clock, it is announced.

Mr. Lile is expected to talk on child welfare work, in which the Ohio Voiture is taking an active part. Other regular business will be transacted.

DISTRIBUTE FILMS

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 30—Distribution to American Legion Posts and the general public of five reels of amateur standard film picturing activities of the A. E. F., soon will be under way, it has been announced by the Eastman Kodak Company.

Condensed from the 2,000,000 feet of Signal Corps film by the Kodak concern working in cooperation with the War Department, the five reels give a vivid picture of all phases of America's participation in the World War.

The film was shown on ships bearing the second A. E. F., to Paris for their annual convention and met with enthusiastic reception, it was declared. After the legionnaires return the film will be made available to posts wishing an individual record. To this film will be added a reel showing the high lights of the Paris convention.

STORM INJURES 700; ESTIMATE DAMAGES AT HUNDRED MILLION

City Will Not Require Outside Aid Says Mayor—Relief Agencies On Scene—Storm Felt Throughout Section

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 30.—With seventy-five known dead from yesterday's tornado, at least 700 injured at private homes and hospitals and property damage mounting to more than $20,000,000 the spirit of St. Louis and its people today surmounted all handicaps in relief work, brought succor to storm distressed citizens and arranged for the rehabilitation of those whose loved ones and homes were lost.

"We asked for aid from St. Louis residents and the response has been so great we do not need outside help," Mayor Victor J. Miller said today after his appeal for funds to residents here had been broadcast. "The regular army troops from Jefferson Barracks here are scheduled this afternoon to relieve some of our policemen and national guardsmen who have been on duty since yesterday afternoon, but our local Red Cross and other relief agencies have met the emergency relief situation nobly."

After a night of relief work supervised by the Red Cross, with rescue and patrol duties being taken care of by police, national guardsmen, and 800 soldiers from Jefferson Barracks to patrol and guard the devastated districts, an appeal for funds to help in relief work was issued by Mayor Victor J. Miller as follows:

"To the people of St. Louis:

"An emergency need affecting hundreds of our fellow St. Louisians exists as the result of yesterday's storm.

"After personally surveying as much of the area as the debris and wreckage would permit, I feel that the extent of the havoc and the consequent suffering makes this call for immediate relief necessary.

"Through the splendid response of the police, the fire department, the American Red Cross, the National Guard, the American Legion and other organizations, the wounded and suffering are being cared for.

"It is difficult in the first flush of the disaster to measure the fullest extent of the sufferings or to estimate the ultimate requirements for complete alleviation. These facts can be ascertained for later use. The fact that there are homeless victims to be housed, provisioned and clothed until mature plans for rehabilitation can be arrived at makes an immediate and liberal response on the part of our own citizens necessary.

"The acknowledged great national agency—the American Red Cross—being so thoroughly equipped by experience and supplied with a staff to administer this relief, I, as mayor am asking for the sake of single effectiveness that all aid be concentrated in this organization.

"Dollars are the necessary and immediate need.

"Subscriptions can be made through any bank or mailed to Mr. Fred Oltman, acting treasurer of the American Red Cross, St. Louis chapter care the Mercantile Trust Co.

"Let every citizen respond in the name of those unforunate St. Louisians who have given shoulder to shoulder with you in many other worthy causes."

Fully six square miles of buildings and streets were devastated by the tornado.

While rescue squads were being reinforced today, national guard units were being posted about to prevent looting and riots.

The storm, reaching St. Louis about 1 o'clock in the afternoon, gained in intensity as it tore through Manchester and Taylor Avenues.

Widening out it spread northward to Prairie Avenue, then east to Glasgow.

The tornado traveled at the rate of about sixty miles an hour. Accompanied by a terrific rainstorm, it tore through residences and factory buildings, uprooted trees, tore out telephone wires and toppled over street lamps.

Augmented by 800 soldiers of the National Guard, hundreds of police, firemen and volunteers, the Red Cross workers continued to comb the ruins for additional victims.

All night the bodies of the dead and injured were being taken to various hospitals and morgues.

As body after body was being recovered from the debris of buildings, workers predicted that the total of deaths might reach or exceed 100.

RECALLS DISASTER

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 30—The tornado recalls to St. Louisians the worst storm in the history of the city, on May 27, 1896, when 350 persons were killed and 1,200 injured with property damage of $20,000,000. Many blocks of residences were completely demolished. A total of 321 buildings were destroyed and 7,263 were damaged. Train and street car service was suspended and the city was in darkness. The path of the storm was about a mile wide and the extreme velocity of the wind was 120 miles an hour.

GIRL SUFFERS HEAD INJURY WHEN AUTO HITS PARKED COACH

Miss Effie Hager, about 20 years of age, 40 Stanton Ave., Dayton, O., sustained a scalp wound which required two stitches to close, in an unusual auto accident on Xenia Ave. in Yellow Springs at 10 o'clock Thursday night.

The accident occurred when a sedan in which she was riding in the front seat driven by Miss Beatrice Huber, 219 Pleasant St., Dayton, O., crashed into the rear of an unoccupied coach, owned by Herbert Ellis, Yellow Springs, parked across the street from Ellis' place of business.

The impact hurled the girl forward in the seat, her head crashing through the windshield. She was taken immediately to the Antioch College clinical department where the deep cut was dressed by Dr. Leslie Sonthe, and the two stitches taken.

Her companion, who was driving the car north along the avenue, had turned around in the seat to look at two youths, following them in another machine and honking their horn as a signal they were about to pass, and bystanders declared she neglected to keep an eye on the road ahead.

The sedan was owned by Leonard Fester, 523 Brightwood Ave., Dayton, who had driven over from Dayton. He had left the car in charge of the girls, while he ran an errand. The girls were riding up the street for a short distance to turn the car around when the crash occurred.

Neither machine was particularly damaged. Ellis' car was forced against another parked car, a sedan, owned by Leroy Lowe, Yellow Springs, and then over the curb on to the sidewalk. The sedan was being driven slowly at the time.

Willis Jones, village marshal, investigated the accident.

FURNISHES BOND

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 30.—Former Justice Frank B. Riss, indicted by the county grand jury on a charge of embezzling $1100 of public funds, collected in liquor raids when he was justice of the peace, today was at liberty under $4000 bond, pending trial. Sheriff Peter Corll says Riss was dismissed as deputy sheriff last July.

GAINS FREEDOM

DAYTON, O., Sept. 30.—Willard Barnett, alias Omer Fisher, was free here today on a writ of habeas corpus, after extradition to West Virginia was refused by the office of Governor Donahey, because of defective legal papers. Barnett was wanted by West Virginia officials, on a charge of murder in connection with the death of his wife.

FIVE ARRESTED

THREE CLASSES OF SINNERS ARE DESCRIBED BY EVANGELIST

"Too many people think they are infidels when they are but following some one else, not having done any thinking themselves. Talk about being an infidel.—you are not an infidel. You are just a little 'infer-hell' because that is where you are headed for if you do not quit treating God the way you have."

"Outside of the Christians here, there are three kinds of people," he said. "First, are those who are held by some passion or appetite; second, those who are utterly indifferent to Jesus Christ and their own condition; third, there are those who are skeptical about the claims of Christ and the reality of the Christian Religion. There are three sinner classes. If you are not a Christian you belong to one of these classes and you are a sinner.

"We are never, beneath hope while above hell." He described the incidents in connection with the text, "Almost Lost, but Saved," as it appears in the New Testament recording the life of Paul. He endeavored to make the assembled company imagine they were on shipboard and going through some of the experiences of Paul. He applied the story to the condition of the soul on life's ocean, in a storm of doubt and unbelief; and begged the people not to follow infidels.

In spite of the inclement weather a large crowd attended Thursday afternoon's service, when special "Mother's Day" exercises were observed. Dr. W. E. Biederwolf delivered a sermon on "Mother" paying a glowing tribute to motherhood as the hope of America.

Homer Grimes led in many old favorite songs. Later, Dr. Biederwolf called for requests for hymns which were old, several of the people recalling songs, long forgotten, their mothers sang. A poll of those present was taken and one foreign country and sixteen states were represented as places of birth of those in attendance. Two were present who had reached their eighty-eighth year, Mrs. Anna R. Baker and Mrs. Hannah Oglesbee, who were given a basket of flowers apiece. J. Milton Kelly sang "Mother Machree". The platform was covered with an abundance of flowers and more than 100 bouquets were sent to aged women and shut-ins Friday.

Thursday evening, after the song service and the recognition of Dr. Biederwolf's birthday, Dr. W. N. Shank led in prayer. Mr. Kelly repeated "Mother Machree" by request.

Friday will be "High School and Young People's Night" when Dr. Biederwolf will speak on "How I Won the Championship in Bicycling." "County Day" will be celebrated Saturday but on account of the wet weather, the community picnic, planned for Shawnee Park, will be held at the First M. E. Church at 12 o'clock.

"Chautauqua Hour" will be held at 2 o'clock when entertaining features have been arranged, and Dr. Biederwolf will speak on "The Old Fashioned Home" at 3 o'clock. Saturday evening, "The Second Coming of Christ" will be the speaker's subject.

"Rally Day" for Sunday Schools will be held Sunday, and "Atonement" will be the evangelist's subject Sunday evening. The services will continue until October 9.

SIXTEEN CASES ON CRIMINAL DOCKET FACING GRAND JURY

Sixteen cases are now listed on the criminal docket for consideration by the grand jury when it convenes in Common Pleas Court for the October term of court Monday morning.

Four persons were bound over within the past few days by R. O. Copsey, justice of the peace, while a fifth case against Frank Flaugher is a holdover from the last term of court. These are additions to eleven cases already on file.

Thomas Fink, charged with assaulting Bernice Fink, June 24, was held for grand jury action under $100 bond, which he furnished after pleading not guilty.

Clarence Garrett, colored, Xenia, was bound over to Common Pleas court on a charge of attempting to assault Roy Minor, a cripple.

Squire Copsey bound Lester Mitchell, Xenia, and Andrew Furay, Cedarville, to the grand jury on charges of rape. Furay pleaded not guilty this week and failed to furnish $500 bond.

BOB OWENS OFFERS HOME TALENT SHOW FOR LEGION WOMEN

"Sensations of 1927" written and directed by Robert Owens, and sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion, will be presented at City Hall Theater the latter part of October, it was disclosed Friday.

The "Sensations" will be presented in two acts and seventeen scenes and an unusual type of show is promised by Mr. Owens. The initial practice will be held Monday, October 3, at 7 p. m., in the basement of the Court House.

The type of the show will be along that of Vanieies" "Scandals" and the "Follies" on the big-time circuit. The necessary pretty girls, tuneful melodies, newest dance steps and clean-cut comedy will feature the show, with emphasis laid on the music and comedy. The show will boast a cast of about thirty, including old and new favorites of home-talent productions.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mrs. Annie Kwinski of 526 1st Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis., writes that she became so weak and rundown that she was not able to do her housework. She saw the name Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the paper and said to her husband, "I will try that medicine and see if it will help me." She says she took six bottles and is feeling much better.

Mrs. Mattie Adams, who lives in Downing Street, Brewton, Ala., writes as follows: "A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and since taking it I feel like a different woman."

With her children grown up, the middle-aged woman finds time to do the things she never had time to do before—read the new books, see the new plays, enjoy her grandchildren, take an active part in church and civic affairs. Far from being pushed aside by the younger set, she finds a full, rich life of her own. That is, if her health is good.

STORM HURTS 700; ESTIMATE DAMAGE AT $100,000,000

fronted relief workers, as they ploughed through heap after heap of debris in search of bodies.

Police ran about shouting warning all night to weeping women and children who were running about the streets seeking relatives, and to men digging frantically through the piled up wreckage in search of lost ones.

Confusion reigned throughout, with authorities working madly to clear the streets.

The grim work of rescue went on all through the night, all through the morning hours, under candle and lantern light, as bodies were taken in clanging ambulances through the streets.

The immensity of the damage to life and property seemed to exceed all predictions as the work went on, so terrible was the picture of desolation spread out before the relief workers.

School children were returning from their noon hour recess when the tornado broke relentlessly upon the city.

Workmen were returning to labor. Young and old alike dashed wildly here and there seeking places of safety, as the tornado, aided by torrents of rain, went on with its work of destruction. Walls of buildings seemed to burst apart, bricks and glass and automobiles were tossed about like wisps.

There were patients in the Mulanphy Hospital at the time the storm broke. The wind side-swiped the building, ripped the entire west wing to shreds, and sent the roof and upper floor crashing to the ground.

None was in that section at the time, but below were a score and more of expectant mothers or mothers with babes in arms—the maternity section.

The Columbia school at 2750 Garrison Ave., was again struck by the elements. By curious circumstances this building has been wrecked by fire and storm several times during recent years. Approximately 700 pupils in the school were in their various class rooms when Principal G. H. Green took note of the approaching storm.

"I sounded the warning" he said. "The children all marched out of the building and in perfect order. Just as the last one stepped out to safety, the roof caved in and the third-floor class rooms were buried beneath tons of debris."

Next door to the Columbia school, the St. Nicholas Greek Church was partly unroofed. Its windows were blown in. Directly north of it the Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church lost its steeple.

Thirty men were at work in the Central Furniture Co., factory at 2527 St. Louis Ave., when, without a moment's warning, a torrent of rain fell and the front of the building collapsed.

"It was terrible," said Charles Williams, a chauffeur. "Before the wind died down I heard men screaming for help. I tried to get to them but another wall collapsed and I ran for my life. I don't know where I was going but I was getting away from here."

Nineteen men were trapped in this building but eighteen were extricated almost immediately and taken to their homes, none being seriously injured. One workman being unaccounted for.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 30.—Five persons were known to be dead today in three Illinois towns that were struck by the tornado traveling northeast across the Mississippi River, Granite City, Venice and Madison.

The dead were Police Chief Michael Clifford of Venice; David Rhule, Nick Radick and W. L. Cotter, all of Granite City; and Charles Heft, of Madison.

At least a score of persons suffered injuries as a result of the violent windstorm.

RUDY, Ark., Sept. 30.—With the exception of approximately ten homes, the residence section of this town of 300 population was a total wreck today as a result of yesterday's tornado which injured more than a dozen persons.

Mrs. Mack Stanfield and the infant daughter of Mrs. Marvin Graham are probably fatally injured. Mrs. Stanfield has both hips broken and the infant is severely cut about the head.

The World And All

BY CHARLES B. DRISCOLL

IN NEW YORK

One of the wonders of New York to me has always been the manner in which individuals calmly plunged out of windows at great heights, and landed in the crowded streets and courts, and never hurt anybody but themselves.

I have watched this New York practice of jumping and falling and being thrown out of windows for years, and still the wonder grew that the pedestrian public down in the streets has gone unscathed.

Just recently one of the men who used to wash the window of my office in the Times building, slipped while passing from one window to another, on the twenty-second floor, and fell to the busy sidewalk below. He was a nice fellow, but a bit careless. He had fallen once before, but not more than three months prior to his final fall. That time he had fallen only eight floors, and had landed on his feet in the midst of the rushing crowd. There had been little excitement about it, and Tony was taken home, where he recuperated for two weeks.

When Tony returned to work I asked him how he was getting along. "All right," he said. "My feet are weak, since I fell on them. I wash them every night in strong red wine. That makes them strong."

But when Tony fell twenty-two stories, he did not land on his strong feet, and he died. It was nearly noon, and the crowd in the Square was dense. But nobody was hit.

Women jump out of windows in the more expensive hotels with amazing frequency, and never jar more than the nerves of those on the sidewalks where they fall.

Many jumpers fall upon passing automobiles, and this proves expensive to the owner of the car, who immediately tries to remember whether his insurance covers damage by jumpers from tall buildings.

But recently we had a break in this remarkable series of escapes for pedestrians. Robert McGroarty, who made a name for himself as stage manager of the successful play, "The Road to Rome," was walking along West Forty-fourth St. in the afternoon. Thousands of others were passing back and forth on the busy sidewalk, but it fell to poor McGroarty to be right in the path of the latest hurtling body. The stage manager was killed, his back broken.

VICTIMS OF MENTAL DISEASE INCREASE CENSUS INDICATES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 —Increasing at a rapid rate since the war, 178,353 victims of mental diseases were under institutional care in thirty states January 1, the bureau of the census announced today. In four years the mental hospital enumeration increases from 218 to 226 per 100,000 population.

First admissions to mental hospitals last year in the states surveyed showed an increase of 7 1-2 per cent over 1925, numbering 36,936 patients, who had not previously been under institutional care.

Census officials explained that first admissions gains were only slightly greater than the general increase in population. The larger, figure, both of admissions and hospital population, possibly were attributable to better medical supervision and consequently to more extensive treatment of this type of disease.

In proportion to the population there were a greater number of first admissions to mental hospitals in the District of Columbia than any other state with 121 to the 100,000 inhabitants. This, it was learned, is chiefly due to the fact that many veterans of the World War, are committed to government mental hospitals here.

The greatest number of mental patients were in hospitals in New York with 43,438. The rate for total inmates was 810 per 100,000 population in the District of Columbia and 383 in New York. Other states ranked comparatively low.

The census bureau is now completing a census of federal and state prisons which it was understood, would show a material increase over 1925.

PIMPLES AND BLACKHEADS ALL OVER FACE

Munden, Va., Aug. 5:—"Awhile ago I began to be troubled with enlarged pores and blackheads. Then pimples developed, and even boils. My skin was very sore and in a terrible condition. It was so disfigured and unsightly I was ashamed of it. I tried about everything to be had for pimples, but with no good results. I had heard Resinol Ointment and Soap so highly recommended for troubles like mine, I decided to try them. After one treatment there was a decided improvement, and the pimples began to fade away. I advise everybody with skin trouble to try Resinol." (Signed) Miss Hazel Beasley.

MARSHAL FINDS NO TRACE OF ALLEGED CHICKEN THIEVES

Willis Jones, Yellow Springs village marshal, who investigated a report of an attempted robbery of the chicken house on the farm of Millard Coffman, one mile west of Yellow Springs, off the Dayton Pike at 10 o'clock, Thursday night, could find no trace of the prowlers who are thought to have been frightened away by a passing automobile.

Members of the family told the marshal they had seen two suspicious looking white men snooping around the barn and chicken house with a flashlight, but the intruders had fled before the officer's arrival.

Investigation disclosed that the strangers had made an attempt to enter the chicken house, and had also evidently entered the barn, which had been left unlocked, for the hood on Coffman's automobile in the barn had been raised, it was found.

Farmers in the vicinity have reported a series of small chicken thefts recently, according to the marshal.

FINANCIAL AID FOR FARMERS DISCUSSED

COLUMBUS, Sept. 30.—Financial aid for Ohio farmers, taxation and building prospects for 1928 are some of the problems to be discussed at the 39th annual convention of the Ohio Building and Loan League at Toledo, October 18-21.

More than 2,000 building and loan officials are expected to attend the four day session. Some of the best known building and loan speakers in the country are on the program.

In issuing the convention call, James A. Devine, Columbus, secretary of the building and loan Men's state organization, pointed out the need for decentralization of building and loan funds from metropolitan centers. Of the $100,000,000 increase in resources last year, $80,000,000 went into building and loan companies in six of the larger cities in Ohio. "With a recession in the building industry and a surplus of funds in metropolitan sections, millions of dollars will be available to Ohio farmers, said Devine.

The convention will be asked to consider a new form of farm loan, covering a long term of years and providing a minimum interest rate.

COUNTERFEIT NOTE IS IN CIRCULATION

Information that a $10 counterfeit gold certificate is in circulation, has been received from postal authorities by Postmaster C. S. Frazer.

The note is from the series of 1922 and bears check letter C, with a portrait of Michael Hillegas and the signature of H. V. Spellman, registrar of the treasury.

The note is described as being a dangerous counterfeit. It is one-fourth inch shorter than the genuine, readily suggesting the spurious quality of the certificate, it is said. The back is printed in a rich orange shade which makes a better appearance than the face.

SKIRT BRINGS TROUBLE

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 30.—Because he wore a gingham dress during the harvest season, John Nagy, a neighbor, struck Albert Teupner, of Parma, with a fence post, according to a petition filed in Common Pleas Court by Teupner asking $5,000 damages. Teupner admitted wearing the gown which he refused to take off when Nagy claimed it distracted his farm hands' attention, and interfered with his work.

PENSION IS PAID

YOUNGSTOWN, Sept. 30.—Henry Ebert, 69, has received a pension check for $1,431 from the government for the services of his father, Charles Ebert, who was killed in the Civil war.

An Outline Of Fashion

This is the fourth of the series of six articles on the "Outline of Fashion." Yesterday we discussed the "Age of Innocence," which finally eliminated the hoop. Today's topic is the gradual moderation of style tendencies toward the close of the nineties.

By MME. LISBETH
Fashion Expert for Central Press and The Evening Gazette

By 1870 the fashionable skirt had become so tight and scant that milady had to bind her knees together when she walked. Draperies had been added to the sides and back like panniers, and a bustle held the dress out in the back. The costume, too, was trimmed with all sorts of plaitings, puffs, bows of ribbon, fringes and ruffles of lace.

By 1879 there was a noticeable moderation, but still the tie-back at the knee-line was in vogue and skirts were trimmed elaborately and trained. Bodices were plain, with long, fitted sleeves, and looked small and short in combination with the overly-trimmed skirts.

The "Polonaise."

The" polonaise" came next, worn over a kilted or flounced skirt. It was fitted in front from the shoulders to about the knee, and had two Watteau plaits which were looped up to form a large bustle in the back. It was buttoned straight up the front to the neck, where it was usually finished with a standing collar and a ruche. The sleeves were still tight and long.

The outdoor garment of this period was the dolman, a wrap shaped somewhat like the polonaise, but with circular open sleeves. With this was worn the small bonnet, similar to the style of 1870, except that strings had been added.

Bustle Passes.

The fashion of 1885 shows the bustle at its most exaggerated period. After that the styles moderated until in 1890 the leg-o'-mutton sleeve was revived. These huge sleeves, held out by stiffening crinoline skirts that fitted at the hips but flared out to six, seven and even more yards around the bottom, were the rage. Fortunately the hoop was not brought back, but the large hats were, balanced, this time, on huge pompadours of hair.

With the ushering in of 1900, balloon shoulders and flaring skirts were subsiding and the tailored, straight front mode was born.

INSPECTION OF SCHOOL PUPILS TO PREVENT DISEASE STOPPED

Medical inspection of school children, which has been made each week during the past month to prevent the outgrowth of any infantile paralysis epidemic here, is being discontinued this week, it was announced Friday. No cases of the disease have been found in the local schools.

There has been relatively few cases of any contagious diseases discovered during the examination, a Xenia physician said Friday. A large number of children have been sent home by the doctors when they showed slight symptoms of illness, and the co-operation of the parents with the health and school authorities has been largely responsible in stopping the spread of any disease. The board of education and heads of the public and parochial schools unite with the physicians in expressing their appreciation of the parents co-operation in the work, it is said.

Weekly bulletins have been received here from the State Department of Health regarding the status of the infantile paralysis epidemic in the state, which now indicate that the epidemic is still as severe as it has been in the past few weeks in those counties where it was first discovered, but that few new cases have been reported in other counties.

The doctors are asking the continued co-operation of the parents of school children in keeping them home when they are dismissed from school with slight symptoms of disease, and thus isolating them from other children and preventing the spread of any germs.

TAIL OF TORNADO IS FELT IN COUNTY

Effect of the ninety-mile an hour gale that spread disaster in its wake at St. Louis at noon Thursday, was felt slightly in Xenia Thursday night, but the wind was not of sufficient intensity to cause property damage.

While receiving no reports of damage, J. R. Kimber, county agent, estimated the high wind and heavy rain may have hurt crops.

Farm Notes

FARM CROPS DECREASE

Less corn, cotton, apples, peaches tobacco, and sugar beets; more wheat, oats, barley, rye, buckwheat, hay, white potatoes, and grapes.

That is how production estimates, as of September 1, compare with last year for the United States on the more important farm products. The differences between this year and last in detail, according to rural economists at the Ohio State University, are as follows:

Corn, 7.2 per cent less than last year; wheat, 3.4 per cent more; oats, 4.7 per cent more; barley, 37.8 per cent more; rye, 50 per cent more; buckwheat, 19.4 per cent more; cotton, 29.4 per cent less; tame hay, 17.5 per cent more; apples, 49.9 per cent less; peaches, 35.7 per cent less; white potatoes, 12.3 per cent more; tobacco, 12.8 per cent less; sugar beets, 9.3 per cent less; grapes, 8.7 per cent more.

Corn and potato production is considerably dependent on weather after September 1, the date on which the above statistics are based.

The total United States potato crop is estimated at 400 million bushels, 12.3 per cent greater than last year but only slightly above the 5-year average.

Corn crop estimates show a decrease of 7.2 per cent for the country as a whole, with most the decrease in the Central States east of the Mississipp. Ohio is scheduled to have a crop of about 98,000,000 bushels, is compared with 145 million bushels last year, and 145 million bushels as a 5-year average.

AUTOIST HELD FOR RECKLESS DRIVING PLEADS NOT GUILTY

After pleading not guilty to a charge of reckless driving before Probate Judge S. C. Wright Friday morning in connection with an auto accident on the Xenia and Springfield Pike last Sunday, R. E. Richardson, Church and Mechanic Sts., was released by Sheriff Ohmer Tate under orders to report to the sheriff of Fayette County, who had requested his arrest for alleged failure to pay the balance of a fine recently inflicted on a charge of driving a car while intoxicated.

Richardson's wife is reported to have been painfully injured about the head in the accident last Sunday. Authorities did not learn the details.

Sheriff Tate also received a criminal execution from the Fayette County Probate Court, asking that Richardson be returned to that county. It is charged he has failed to pay $90, remaining due on a fine and costs recently imposed in that county.

After he had pleaded not guilty to the reckless driving charge Friday, Judge Wright fixed his hearing for Friday morning, October 7, at 9 a. m. His bond was set at $200.

JAMES M'CURRAN AGAIN ELECTED

James McCurran was re-elected grand knight of Xenia Council, No. 1801, Knights of Columbus, for the coming year, at the annual meeting at council hall, S. Detroit St., Wednesday night. All other officers were re-elected with the exception that Walter Neville was selected as the new recorder.

Daniel E. Butler, Toledo, O., inspector for this district of Knights of Columbus, and J. Lynn Cochran, Dayton, O., district deputy, addressed the meeting.

Officers elected for the coming year are:

Tales Off The Reel

VOL. 1. FRIDAY, SEPT. 30, 1927 NO. 52

One man, we hear, managed to stop his wife from talking so much by putting concrete in her beauty clay.

Sam Shanks of New Burlington, is a real Ubiko booster. He was in the other day to get a batch of feed and volunteered the information that Ubiko Egg Mash was the best he ever had fed.

The only time we have any trouble with rheumatism is when we try to spell it.

BIBLE THOUGHT

A PERSONAL EXHORTATION:—Bless the L O my soul: and all that is within me, bless His Holy Name. Psalm 103:1.

SHIFTING BLAME FOR WAR

President Von Hindenburg's official denial that Germany was responsible for the World war is supported by a secret United States document in the congressional library, according to Robert L. Owen, former senator from Oklahoma.

The document, a study of World war responsibility, was prepared by the library on order of the United States senate. The order was contained in a resolution presented by Senator Owen and adopted by the senate in 1925.

In his book, "The Russian Imperial Conspiracy," just published, Owen asserts, "under the United States senate resolution to collate the evidence on the origin of the World war, Charles E. Tansil, expert historian, was assigned the task and is now convinced of the Russian and French responsibility. His book has not been published as a government document for reasons of diplomatic amity."

Owen's own book came from the press just a few days before the historic speech at Tanneberg, September 18, in which Hindenburg said, "The accusation that Germany was responsible for this greatest of all wars we hereby repudiate. On the contrary, the war with all the terrible sacrifices it demanded from the whole country was an extreme measure resorted to in the preservation of our existence against a host of enemies. Germany is ready at any moment to prove this fact before impartial judges."

The United States study of war guilt was supposed to be presented to the senate foreign relations committee in February, 1926. At that time the work was still incomplete and the committee apparently decided to let the matter die.

All copies of the unprinted document have remained since that time under lock and key in the congressional library and officials have declined to make any statement of its contents.

All of this has precipitated a situation admitted to be unique in the world's history.

COMMON SENSE AND COURAGE

Schlee and Brock, pilots of the world flight in the "Pride of Detroit," showed excellent judgment when they stopped at Tokyo and decided to go no further. Under present conditions, the attempt to fly across the Pacific ocean would be very likely to result fatally. It sometimes takes more courage to give up a cherished project than to go ahead in the face of too great obstacles and dangers.

These fliers performed a most remarkable feat of navigation, having covered 12,275 miles in 18 days. They have met all possible difficulties of climate and weather and high mountains and adverse air currents. But the terrible obstacle in the form of the Pacific ocean seems far too much for the present stage of aviation.

It is wise to reognize the limitations established by nature, until the inventions of man prove wholly equal to overcome them.

THE STICKING QUALITY

After having been a school teacher for 53 years a Pennsylvania woman has won her degree from a college. It was a life-time ambition with her. In her earlier years she did not have the opportunity. So many so-called ambitions are just sudden enthusiasms. Most of us lack the sticking quality in ambition. The thing we think we want to do today we don't want to do tomorrow. The big rewards of life are for those whose ambition, next year, will not have gone stale.

CHAMPIONITIS

There is an epidemic of championitis abroad. Some man wants to sit on the top of a flag pole longer than anybody else ever did. Another man is bound to fly fasted and farther, and another man insists on breaking the record for eatiing eggs. Tens of thousands gather to see a prize fight, not so much because they care for prize fighting as because the fight determines a championship.

Silly, somebody says. And yet it's not silly. In that idea are the germs of real progress. Competition has pushed the world forward. The quest for championship sometimes leads into strange paths and to absurd lengths, but the quest is a healthy one.

LOVE

Somebody writes and suggests a paragraph on love. Nobody can write very intelligently on love. Love means different things to different people. Perhaps the true test of love lies in the desire to give without thought of getting. If you can't pass that test you are not in love.

AS TO BEING SHOCKED

Beware of losing the ability to be shocked, says Henry Churchill King, great educator. Dean Swift said: "I never wonder to see men wicked, but I often wonder to see them not ashamed."

If there is anything worse than doing evil, it is to feel no repentance. If there is anything worse than a bad system of living it is to build up a defense for that system of living. To make a philosophy which excuses evil and to try and believe that philosophy is worse than many a bad act.

IT'S THE BRAIN

Gertrude Ederle swam the English channel, and it was admitted that her exploit was the greatest in combined speed and endurance ever credited to a woman. Few today think much about Gertrude Ederle, although she performed a most creditable physical feat. Despite a very small handful of prize fighters and others, the world in the long run pays a much higher price for brains. Young folks will do well to remember that.

The Daybook Of A New Yorker

By Burton Rascoe

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch To Middletown Journal

NEW YORK, Sept. 29. — There is no necessity to pay for amusement in this city.

A wandering salesman in the Forties drives up to the curb in a small sedan. He takes out a queer looking instrument and with it jacks up the car with singular ease. A crowd collects to watch and he starts his sales talk on the instrument, which is operated on a novel principle — that of hydraulic pressure. He will take your name and address, if you wish, and the jack, which sells for about $10, will be sent to your home c. o. d.

Lower Broadway is entertained by a tall, morbid-looking man who, although well dressed, walks slowly about, sandwiched between two billboards. And the letter thereon declares:

"Behold, I am the Wandering Jew, God's Messenger. These Words did God speak unto me. 'Fear not, I heard thy prayer and this is the remedy for war. Set aside one day of universal worship, each one to go to their own church or synagogue and I will abolish war from the Earth. I, the Lord God, Creator of Heaven and Earth, have spoken it.'"

No one knows who this prophet is, nor for what reason he thus attempts the salvation of a wicked city. Nor does he volunteer the source from which he secured this alleged divine promise.

A new five-and-ten-cent store is soon to be opened on Forty-second street, opposite Bryant park. In the meantime, the spectacle of some half dozen painters, decorating the ceiling of the unfinished store, is more than sufficient to keep the attention of a goodly number of citizens.

The New York postoffice is accustomed to deciphering unintelligible addresses. Recently a postcard was received addressed to "Al, N. Y. U. S. A." The canny gents at the postoffice forwarded the letter to Governor Alfred Smith. It was meant for him.

Everyone is wondering why a great many of the stores have wired X-shaped wooden pieces to the center of their show windows. With the construction of new subway lines, to say nothing of the enormous excavations under way for the foundations of new buildings, the stores must brace their windows. Otherwise, the shocks of repeated blasting would make short work of the plate glass.

KELLYGRAMS

by Fred C. Kelly

Bigamy and Curiosity

On three different occasions it has fallen to my lot to carry the news to a forsaken wife that her husband has sauntered off with another girl and committed bigamy.

I had always been curious to know what a woman would do or say on learning that her husband is a bigamist. I was picked as bigamy messenger the first time—to my great delight — by mere chance, because I happened to be the only reporter handy. But some months later I was the logical selection, since I was the only man on our paper who had had experience at carrying bigamy tidings. After that I was so fascinated with such assignments that the city editor hadn't the heart to send anybody else. Everybody has to have a hobby, and mine had become Breaking Bigamy News. Anyone having such information to convey to a deserted wife might do well to get in touch with me.

I was anxious on the first trip to learn what the wronged wife would say first of all. On succeeding notifications I was eqqually curious to note how the first words of the different wives compared.

All three said: "Who is she?"

After that question each showed a little individuality.

One went over to the crib where her little babe lay sleeping and softly sobbed.

Another remarked sadly, without reproach: "We had such a nice time together the last evening he was at home."

The third angrily declared: "Well, if I get hold of him, I think I'll shoot him—and her, too."

But invariably the first thought was to satisfy a natural sense of curiosity: "Who is she?"

When a man is known as fickle and finds a new sweetheart every time he moves to another town, people shake their heads and speak of him as if he were lacking in strength of character. Yet everybody admits that the power of adaptability is one of the best indications of real intelligence. A fickle man is simply one with the ability to adjust himself readily to new conditions. If less fickle, or less adaptable, he might grieve away his life over the absence of one particular girl instead of finding himself new one.

One of the best salesmen I ever knew confided to me when asked for the secret of his success: "I live well within my means, but dress far beyond my means."

EMPLOYES

Just how far do you go in making complaints against an employe to his employer? Every day someone is found who is quite indignant at the way he has been treated by a person who is not only paid for doing a service to his employer's customers, but for being polite while doing it.

Everyone has a feeling more or less that they do not want to have an employe discharged for any slight deviation from duty, but so many men and women have decided that they will do as little as they can and do it with ill grace and I think it is the duty of everyone to insist that a person shall be made to do the thing he contracts to do.

The other day a friend of mine who lives upon a hilltop heard the milkman swearing at her maid. She went out to find that because the maid, who is particularly kindly and careful of the feelings of others, had told this man that she did not want any milk that day, he had asked, "Why in the blankety blank blank didn't you tell me so yesterday? I am not going to climb this hill for nothing."

At this moment the mistress of the house took a hand and tried to explain that she had been out to dinner the night before, and there was a surplus of milk in the ice box. That had no effect upon the irate young rowdy.

"I don't have to climb the hill," he said, "unless you take milk."

"But this is the first time that you have ever been told we did not want milk."

"That makes no difference. When I climb the hill you must take your usual amount of milk."

After he had left my friend called up the manager and told him the circumstances. She was informed that not only she need not take milk, if for some reason she had more than she could use still in her ice box, but she could return the milk that she had ordered if she found she did not need all of it.

Said the manager: "I will see this young man and explain to him just exactly where he gets off."

Evidently something happened, for my friend has a new milkman, and she cited the incident to me, wondering if she did right.

"I'd hate to have the man discharged," she said.

"Of course, one has more or less sentiment in the matter, but why should not a man politely do his duty? Why should not every workman do the thing that he contracts to do?"

It really looks as though we might have a better world if each person should insist that the other fellow must do the thing he promises, all the while remembering to keep our own promises and covenants.

Personally, I have never anyone in this world to make a great success in anything, unless he cheerfully did a little more than he was paid for, but you cannot always make every one understand that.

Memo: Do your own duties conscientiously and see that others keep their contracts with you.

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent.

"Hello! Where did you come from? Where am I?" demanded the boy. But instead of answering him, Mrs. Gray Rabbit sat down hurriedly and held up her paws in a helpless fashion.

"Oh, dear me! I have never had such a scare in all my life! How would you like to come up to your front door and find a perfect stranger sitting on the very threshold? Sitting on the threshold, indeed! Why, you are blocking up the entrance. The very idea of a respectable mother Rabbit being unable to go into her own home.

"Tch! Tch! Tch I feel positively weak—just as though I had not had a cabbage leaf for days. My whiskers are trembling.

"Goodness only knows how long it will take me to get over the shock! Who are you? And why are you here?"

Mrs. Gray Rabbit tried to look very indignant, and only succeeded in looking comical—so comical that Peter had to bite his lip to keep from laughing right in her face. But before he had time to reply Mrs. Rabbit shook one paw at him.

"What are you doing? What are you doing?" cried she. "I demand an explanation!"

"Nothing," stammered Peter, drawing back, startled at this sudden fierceness.

"Nobody has no business to be doing nothing," declared Mrs. Gray Rabbit, decidedly. "Everybody has——"

But the boy interrupted her.

"Pardon me, madam, but that is bad grammer," said he, politely. "You mean——"

"Don't try to tell me what I mean," cried Rabbit, crossly. "I have my opinion of folks that hang around a place where they have no busiiness. Be off with you now!"

"I didn't say I have no business," began the boy, but could get no further.

"OH DEAR ME! I HAVEN'T HAD SUCH A SCARE IN MY LIFE!" MUTTERED MRS GREY RABBIT.

"Well, you haven't—you can't have in my house. I am all tuckered out. 'Tis all I can do to wiggle a whisker, and I have no breath to spend on a Human. Perhaps if I had not worn myself out spring cleaning the house and scouring the cabbge patch I might have more patience with an uninvited guest."

Household Hints

BY MRS. MARY MORTON

Today's menu hint is just an ordinary meal for an ordinary day. Chili con carne makes a good, hearty dish, and this manner of making it may differ from your own. When macaroni is used potatoes may be omitted. The cabbage and apple salad will give crispness to the meal.

Chili Con Carne
Cabbage-Apple Salad
Entire Wheat Bread
Peach Delight Milk

Today's Recipes

Chili Con Carne—One pound macaroni, two pounds hamburg, two cans kidney beans, one can tomatoes, one onion. Cook macaroni until tender, drain, chop onion and simmer with the meat for one-half hour, add tomatoes and beans, add all to macaroni, salt, and simmer one-half hour.

Peach Delight—Cut sponge cake in squares, cover with sliced peaches, top with whipped cream or thin custard.

Cabbage-Apple Salad—Shred or chop cabbage quite fine, add half as much chopped apple, a little onion and half as much celery as apple. A little grated carrot adds both to the color and flavor. Mix with your favorite salad dressing.

Fricasee—Means to stew in stock, gravy or sauce. It is a slow method of cooking and is used for poultry, game and some meats.

Suggestions

Oil Cleans All

The cloth moistened with kerosene will clean the kitchen sink, the outside of the teakettle and the top of the stove.

Made Room

A housewife writes: "When baking a pie recently I had my oven full except for a small space which would not hold my pie tin. So I hit upon the scheme of putting in a small pan, inverting same, and setting my pie on that. This saves time and fuel as I could do all my baking at once."

Longer Wear

The economical buy in bed and table linen is halfbleached linen. It is stronger than the bleached linen and will become creamy white in a few washings.

Try Again

When the cream will not whip, add the white of an egg to it. Let both the cream and the egg get thoroughly chilled and try whipping them together.

Grapefruit

Grapefruit may be served as the first course for a dinner or luncheon in the following ways:

1. Prepare several hours before serving. Cut in half, remove core and seeds, fill space with sugar, and chill. When ready to serve add two or three maraschino cherries and a tablespoon of the liquid.

2. Serve each half sprinkled with shaved maple sugar. Maraschino cherries halved may be placed all around the edge, or halved green and red grapes alternating.

3. Remove pulp and sweeten, serve in tall glasses with cocoanut on top.

4. Remove pulp and pour hot chocolate sauce over before serving.

5. Remove pulp; use equal parts of orange pulp and white grapes, peeled, seeded and cut in halves. Sweeten to taste. Add maraschino cherries if desired. Serve in tall glasses.

Behind The Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Sept 30. — The president and "his lady" visit nobody—that is, not as official personages. If they sneak out "incog," now and then, to see some friends they happen to know as mere human beings, that isn't anybody's business.

Mrs. Coolidge drops in thus occasionally, in the most informal way you can think of, on a number of acquaintances she has in Washington.

They aren't particularly nobby people, either — just nice folks, not in society or the official "set" at all, that she likes to sit and knit and chat and have tea with. You can see her special secret service man, almost any pleasant afternoon, loafing and talking with the kids, in front of a northwest side apartment building where you can rent a suite for $60 to $75 a month whenever you want to consult the janitor about the "Flat to Rent" sign he generally has displayed in his basement window.

Believe me, many's the high and mighty Washingtonian who'd trade a whole stack of hand-engraved, gilt-edged White House invitation cards for just one such intimate little call as this.

One of the last things the neighbors remember seeing, before the Coolidges left for the Black Hills, was our well-known secret sevice guy, mooching up and down in font of that distinctly ordinary, un-o'-the-mine apartment shack. One of the first things they noticed, following the presidential family's return to the capital, was that identical sleuth, trying, like any good fly cop, to make himself as inconspicuous as possible in the shadow of the selfsame edifice.

Mr. Coolidge appears to be proof against the temptation to play hookey from the White House as his wife does. Frank Stearns and Attorney General Sargent are his only personal cronies and they come to the executive mansion to see him, instead of enticing him out, on the "q. t.," to their diggings.

For that matter, his wife's chums look in on her, too, once in awhile, without the usual White House fuss and feathers, but she likes to get out, as well.

The head of the family never does — to go anywhere — except officially—even for a walk, with the regular presidential retinue. Mrs. Coolidge's secret service man doesn't count as a retinue. He snoops along in the rear, like an everyday pedestrian. Folks who don't know him, but who do recognize Mrs. Coolidge, quite generally imagine she's unattended—and are surprised at it.

When Mr. Coolidge ventures abroad, he does it as "president." Nobody makes the mistake of supposing he's without a bodyguard.

There have been presidents who, off duty, liked to attend little private parties, which never figured in the newspapers, just as Mrs. Coolidge's informal visits never get into the society columns, but this particular White House tenant either doesn't care for them or has no time to spend that way.

The only visit the Coolidges are on record as having paid, officially, during Mr. Coolidge's term as president, was at the Roumanian legation, when Queen Marie was here. That, of course, was the correct thing, the queen being a royal guest of the country. First she called at the White House, and the White House folks, in due form, returned her call half an hour later.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

A LITTLE PREACHMENT

I wonder if I might be permitted just a little bit of preachment, just to rest myself in this business of handing out advice. Do you know, boys and girls, that in reading your letters I can't help feeling that if you would devote some of your time to learning to spell and write gramatically you might help that lonely feeling a good deal.

Suppose you and your friend have quarreled and he—or she—is going out with someone else. Your heart is sore, of course, and you write a letter to this column. You pour out your heart and feel better. Now read your letter critically and see how many grammatical errors you have made and how many words you have misspelled. One girl wrote a "pome" and in it she said that her "pals have all went away." Another says, "I think he has wrote." She also spelled chorus "course." You probably know better, but are careless. Work is a wonderful healer of hurt hearts, and the one bit of philosophy I have salvaged in the years is that you can turn every bit of experience—good or bad—to your own good if you will.

And please don't think that I'm unsympathetic because I have preached a little sermon, will you?

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I'm a brunette 18 years old and considered attractive. I have been going with a boy for some time. He is very handsome and popular. Not many days ago he and I became peeved. It was over loves me, but is just acting this way to see if I am jealous nothing. He hasn't been speaking to me. He doesn't go with anyone else. He is only a friend to everyone. He has always loved me and his folks too. I would love dearly for you to give me your best advice of how I may draw him closer to me.

LONELY AND BLUE."

Don't get easily peeved over nothing, my dear, and that goes for girl friends as well as boys. He'll probably get over his "mad" spell and be back before long.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a girl in my teens. About a year ago I met a boy three years my senior. We went together for a while, then a girl friend tried to break our friendship. He came back and we made up until just a few weeks ago he left for another state. He told me that he loved me dearly and would write to me. It has been about a month since he left but I haven't heard from him. I think he has written to this girl. Oh, what shall I do? I love him and I believe he over this other girl. Please give me your advice and print this so other lovers may know how I feel.

"WORRIED JAKE."

I suppose it wouldn't help a bit to point out that a boy who would tell you he loved you and would write and then wrote to another girl instead, isn't worth worrying about, is it, Jake? It's true, nevertheless. I'd just square my shoulders, smooth away the worry look and find a new friend on whom you can depend. Oh, yes you can. Let the other girl have him if she wants him. Let her do the worrying.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

KEEPING SIGNS OF AGE OUT OF THE EYES AND THE EYE AREA

The eyes are very quick to reveal the age if they are not cared for in the right way. There are women who spend hundreds of dollars each year to preserve a youthful throatline only to have it contradicted by aging eyes.

One of the first places signs of age make their appearance is around the eyes. One squints in the bright sunlight or when facing the wind. Gradually the "squint lines" which come as a result fail to fade away, and you have the beginnnig of crows-feet, those little lines that radiate out from the corners of the eyes. At the first hint of these lines, you should begin a careful treatment of the eye area to keep it smooth, soft and unlined.

Eyelids, too, soon lose their look of youth. The skin that covers them is so tender that it dries out very easily. When it is too dry, the way to wrinkles is paved. Operations are sometimes performed to take the wrinkles out of eyelids, but these would never have to be resorted to if one cared for one's eyes scientifically from an early age, or worked diligently to restore a smoothness and freshness that had been lost through neglect.

One of the first essentials in keeping eyelids young is to be careful in making them up. Strive for a soft finish. It is much more becoming, besides being a protection. This is one reason eye shadow that comes in cream form is particularly good. You should never powder your eyelids, both because it gives them a harsh look and because it dries out the skin. If you do not use eye shadow cream, you can achieve a soft finish by leaving just a faint film of your face cream in the lids and beneath the eyes.

Keeping the eyes rested and in motion is very important in retaining their look of youth, as I told you in an earlier talk. Rested eyes do not pucker up the surrounding area as do those which are suffering strain. However, it is always advisable for a woman, after she reaches the age of 25, to use some definite treatment to counteract the lines which have a tendency to make their first appeaarnce about that age. I always advise finger printing a good, nourishing anti-wrinkle cream around the eyes, to be retained overnight or during your daytime rest period.

You will find the before-dinner treatment, of which I spoke in my talk on relaxation, a great help in preventing lines and in keeping your face from growing dead and lifeless in appearance. Lie down and place a thin strip of absorbent cotton soaked in an astringent anti-wrinkle lotion over your eyes. Retain it for 15 minutes or longer and then remove the compress and pat it all over the face and throat, paying special attention to the area around he eyes.

Babe Ruth Equals 1921 Home Run Record

WRITES CHALLENGE TO PITTSBURGH IN LANGUAGE OF SWAT

Bambino Can Break Record In Next Two Contests

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.— High across the right field wall at the Yankee stadium yesterday George Herman Ruth wrote his challenge to the Pittsburgh Pirates— wrote it in screaming home-run headlines; wrote it in the language of smash and biff!

And what a challenge!

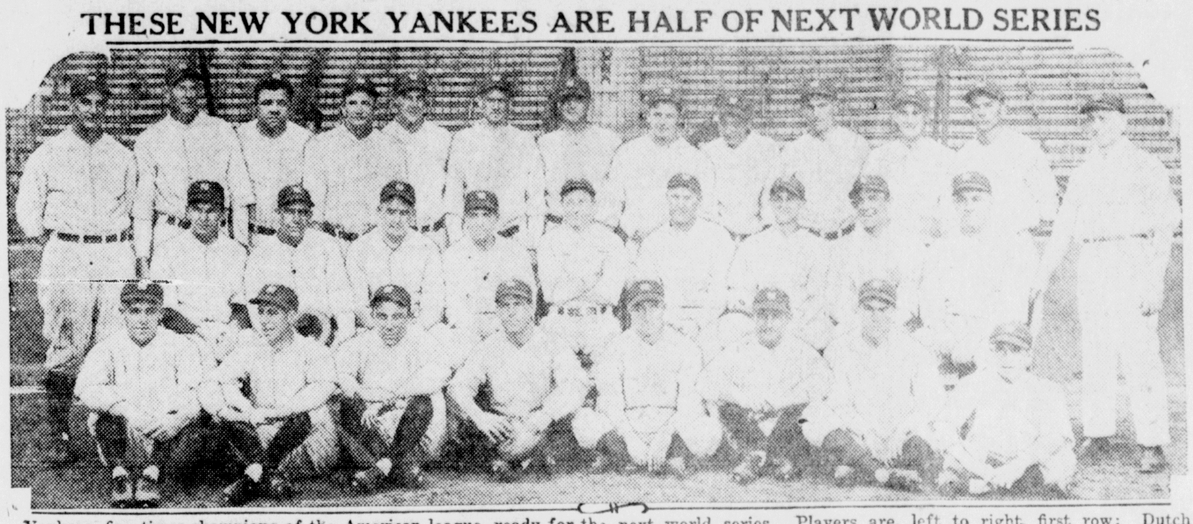

Twice the Bam swung with all his gigantic force and twice he sent home runs screaming into the stands. And now the thing they said couldn't be done has transpired.

This morning the Babe stands alone as the champion of swat. The 1921 record of fifty-nine has been tied. And with two games remaining it's an even money bet that a new home run record will have been set up for posterity to shoot at before the curtain is rung down on the greatest season in the Babe's history.

The high light of the afternoon came when the Babe planted his fifty-ninth homer in the right field stands, and trotted around the bases to a roar that was thunderous. At the plate Lou Gehrig met him, and was first to congratulate him on accomplishing the feat that even Babe feared was impossible. And then all the rest—hopping about like kids, shrieking and yelling and shaking hands.

To tie that 1921 record wasn't easy. Babe went into the last month of the season sixteen home runs behind. No one thought he had a chance. But he kept plugging and yesterday he got that sixteenth that he needed—thereby setting a new record for home runs in a single month. The most he ever had got in a month of play before was thirteen.

H. L. SAYRE MAKES HOLE IN ONE ON XENIA COUNTRY CLUB LINKS

H. L. Sayre, Xenia druggist, became the second member of the Xenia Country Club to join the "Hole-In-One Club" when he sank his tee shot on the 140-yard pitch hole, the short hole on the club's nine hole course, Thursday afternoon.

The hole is No. 2 on the course. Sayre used a mashie in making the "ace." He was playing at the time with William Moorehead, who witnessed the feat.

Sayre enjoys the unique distinction of being the first local golfer to score a hole in one on the course since it was laid out along a new plan.

He is the second Xenian to realize the dream of all golfers. Several years ago C. E. Arbogust, this city, holed out in one shot, and several weeks ago a Chicago man did likewise while on a visit here.

Sayre will receive a loving cup, recently offered by Frank Conable, former Xenian, to any member of the local club making a hole in one.

OHIO NORTHERN HAS LIGHT, FAST TEAM

ADA, O., Sept. 30.—Ohio Northern gridders will begin their season this year with several familiar figures in the lineup. Though the Polar Bear outfit may turn out to be a light one, Dr. J. O. Newton, director of athletics, has hopes of producing a speedy and highly effective machine from the available material.

Dr. J. O. "Doc" Newton, head of the department of athletics will personally supervise the backfield coaching. Line coaching on this year's Northern outfit will be handled by Coach "Big Bill" William F. Meredith, former Denison athlete. While at the downstate school he played football in '15, '16 and '19 in the tackle position, as well as serving in the center position on the court squad. He handled the weights in track events and played baseball. In 1917 he played with the 83rd division football team. Meredith graduated from Denison in '20, and since then has coached two years at Norwalk high school, one year at Denison, three at Ashland College, and is now starting on his second at Northern.

MUST HAVE PHOTO ON GRID TICKETS

EVANSTON, Ill., Sept. 30.—A new wrinkle to prevent football ticket scalping was disclosed today by Max K. Hayford, ticket manager at Northwestern University here. He issued anorder whereby every student's ticket must bear a photograph of its owner.

The photographs on the ticket will be compared with the user by the ushers. If there is no resemblance, admission will be denied.

Northwestern starts its annual football season here next Saturday with South Dakota.

Sports Done Brown

By NORMAN E. BROWN

The close of every major league season finds many of the outstanding players of the year gazing longingly at the "lucky players" of the world's series participants, so to speak.

Year after year men whose individual efforts entitle them to a place in the sun, find themselves outside the fence because of the failure of their teammates to deliver at the same speed.

This year's list of "unfortunates" includes such players as George Sisler of the Browns, Ted Lyons and Thomas of the White Sox, young Lisenbee of the Washington Senators, Harry Heilmann of the Detroit Tigers in the American league. Every one of the contending teams in the National league boasts several star players who will be in line for "most valuable" honors if they aren't fortunate to get in on the world's series melon cutting.

What a beautiful record Ted Lyons might hang up for a season were he backed by such a team as the Yankees. And Lisenbee? Flirting with twenty victories despite the weak hitting of the Senators. Heilmann, holding for the Detroit Tigers the batting honors that the team has boasted through the reign of Cobb and later, sees his base hits wasted, as far as carrying him into the fall classic is concerned.

Sisler, great first baseman, base runner and batter that he is, has never broken into a world's series. This year, relieved of his managerial worries, he approached his old-time form afield and at bat, but found himself playing once again with a hopeless outfit.

Ethan Nathan Allen, young outfielder, has been playing great guns for the Cincy Reds in the National league free for all. Had the Reds gotten away to an earlier start he might have come in for some of the glory this fall. Eddie Farrell, shifted from the hopeful Giants to the hopeless Braves, deserves mention. Frank Hogan, slugging catcher of the Boston Braves is another.

Most fans recall how Walter Johnson labored beyond the average life-time of a major league pitcher before he enjoyed the sensation of breaking into a world's series and drawing the extra dividends therefrom. Then what a dramatic page in baseball he wrote!

Ty Cobb basked in the limelight of world's series fame early in his career, then labored in vain to get into another.

Question of the authority and desirability of censorship of books and other literature by public library officials will be one of the major questions for discussion at the annual meeting of the Ohio Library Association when it meets in Columbus Oct. 11, 12 and 13.

Rev. Harry E. Eversull of the Walnut Hills Congregational Church, Cincinnati, will lead the discussion of censorship. Remembering the furor Elmer Gantry has caused and the difficulties of literary Boston and its censorship committee, it looks as though there might be considerable discussion, possibly even heated discussion.

The librarian's life outside of the library will be the subject of an address by Clarence W. Sumner of the Youngstown Public Library. He will discuss how the library as an active organization can aid other organizations and become an active factor in the life of any community.

On the second and third days of the convention, sectional meetings will be held for groups interested in specialized phases of library work.

A special feature of the convention, Miss Sandoe, county librarian, says, will be redings by Carl Sandburg, poet, who will present a number of river chanteys which he picked up on the lower Mississippi and some of his own poems.

These meetings are open not only to librarians but to trustees of libraries or to any persons interested in what libraries are doing. The Hotel Deshler will be headquarters for the meetings.

Grid Captains

Introducing:

Captain Bill Webster of Yale.

Captain Bill has been skipper of the football team of every school which he has attended, so it was only natural the Elis would confer the honor on him.

He captained Shelton high somewhere in Connecticut. Then Hotchkiss Preparatory saw him boss one of his teams.

Last season Yale looked about for a capable lad to lead the Blue in 1927. Eyes fell on Bill—that was all there was to it.

Yale looks for a better season than last year. In 1926 the Elis lost to Brown, the Army and Princeton. But they defeated Dartmouth and Harvard, which last is the games of games in Eli eyes.

BOUILLON BALLADS

CHICAGO, Ill.—Light opera arias and popular musical hits as rendered on the soup spoons of her husband and a boarder annoyed Mrs. Katherine Getzow, but she held her peace.

However when the pair attempted Beethoven's Ninth Sonata during a recent attack on the consomme she reached for a bowl—

At least that was the story of the two when they exhibited their bumped heads in court. A reconciliation was effected.

YOURS FOR 5c

A Genuine Smoke Surprise —Nothing More to Pay

We won't blame you if you're skeptical. You're always hearing about 5c cigars that are "really worth more." Perhaps you've tried some in your time and have been disappointed.

But listen. Here's a cigar that sold at a higher price for years—and sold big! And if it hadn't made good—hadn't piled up volume sales all those years—the price could never have been brought down to anywhere near a nickel!

We're talking about Havana Ribbon—famous for years—and now 5c. A peach of a cigar regardless of price. Mild and fragrant as they come! Made of ripe tobacco. Try Havana Ribbon. Drop in the nearest cigar store and drag out a nickel. Then forget about the price. Just prepare to enjoy yourself! Light up and look for all you ever wanted in a real cigar.

SWISS GREET LEGIONNAIRES; SAVAGE EXPRESSES THANKS

LUCERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 30.—Howard P. Savage, national commander of The American Legion, in an address at a reception held by the Swiss government in his honor upon the arrival here of 250 Legionnaires and their families on the official post-convention tour of Legion officials, said:

"We of the American Legion have come to charming Switzerland for a holiday; to enjoy your far-famed hospitality; admire your priceless art, your towering and majestic mountains, your peaceful and fertile valleys, and finally take home with us a beautiful thought all these things inspire.

"Completely surrounded in the Great War as you were; bounded on the west by France, on the north by Germany, on the east by Austria and Italy, and on the south by Italy, four nations locked in the struggle of war, two combined against the other two, Switzerland emerged from those years of catastrophe one of the few unmarred beauty spots on the map of Europe.

Looking Back

"Standing as we are today, apart and above those fields of battle on every side, we are able perhaps to look back, as it were, from the viewpoint of a neutral friends of all, and feel a sympathy for all in that conflict which brought our organization, The American Legion, into being.

"This is a holiday for us. A few days ago we completed our serious work in our national convention in Paris. We have visited the graves of our dead comrades. Today we can lay aside for a little while the memories of tragedy and sacrifice. Here there is the peace and beauty that has not been interrupted; and it is appropriate that here we pause in our holiday to renew the pledge in the preamble of our Legion constitution "to promote peace and good will on Earth."

"The American Legion is composed of men and women who served in the armed forces of the United States in the war. We are still in the service of our country by being as good citizens as we tried to be good soldiers and sailors.

Want To Keep Peace

"We want to keep our nation strong and peaceful. We believe that we can help promote goodwill among all people though a better personal and individual understanding of them and they of us. We seek a mutual and sympathetic understanding of their problems and our problems; of the institutions, the thoughts and the hopes of all.

"We are glad we are here. We want to know you better and we want you to know Americans better. While we are enjoying our holiday with you, we also will get from your people a new inspiration to aid us in our work of doing good; of aiding the progress of our communities at home; of teaching our children loyalty to God and County; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy.

"As national commander of The American Legion, I wish to thank you deeply and sincerely, for your welcome to us today."

DETROIT WILL HAVE WORLD'S LARGEST RETAILING STORE

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 30—Detroit is to have the largest retail store in the world.

It will be the new J. L. Hudson Company Building, Detroit's old established firm, plans for which were announced by Richard H. Webber, president.

Both Marshall Field's of Chicago and Macey's of New York, the two great stores now ranking first and second respectively in size, will be eclipsed when the new Detroit building, towering high over Woodward avenue, opens its doors.

The programme for the project is complete. Plans are drawn and contracts let and the actual razing of the building now occupied by the Newcomb-Endicott Company, purchased by the J. L. Hudson Company in January of this year, will begin the first week of October to make way for the new structure. Test borings to determine the foundation requirements have already been made.

The building will occupy the entire ground area of the present Newcomb-Endicott site on Woodward avenue, Grand River avenue east Farmer street, adjoining the present Hudson buildings.

The tower will rise 418 feet above thee sidewalk and 72 feet above the sixteenth story. It will be 47 feet higher than the Eaton Tower.

The new structure will almost double the total floor space of the present Hudson store, given a grand total of more than 1,500,000 feet when completed.

The building will be ready for occupancy in the fall of 1928.

HONOR EVANGELIST ON SIXTIETH BIRTH ANNIVERSARY HERE

Dr. W. E. Biederwolf, evangelist at the First M. E. Church, celebrated his sixtieth birthday Thursday and ministers of the city arranged a dinner in his honor at the Lulu Faye Dining Room, Thursday noon. Places were laid for all ministers of the city, Homer Grimes, singer with the Biederwolf party and Dr. Biederwolf.

The occasion also called for tribute to Dr. Biederwolf at the evening evangelistic service when a huge basket, containing sixty roses, the gift of friends was presented the speaker. Herman Eavey of the chorus choir, presented Dr. Biederwolf a fountain pen and pencil set, as a gift from that body.

Reserve Supplies of Loreco Gasoline

OF NO small importance in the producing, refining and marketing of Loreco Gasoline is the problem of distribution. For, in order that the public may be served without interruption, it is necessary that reserve supplies of Loreco Gasoline and Motor Oil be kept constantly stored at important centers.

From these supply points, known as "bulk stations," tank trucks must operate day in and day out, through rain, snow or mud, to keep the retail service stations operating.

Here, again, the subject of investment is involved. The Louisiana Oil Refining Corporation owns and operates its own bulk stations and tank trucks, thus insuring an unbroken chain of service from the producing wells to the retail station where the autoist may be supplied with Loreco products at any hour of the day, every day in the year.

Ready to drop by noontime

SHE seemed to stay tired—her lightest task too heavy. . . . What was the matter? Why, she used to be full of life and energy! What had stolen her health—had sapped her strength?

Constipation takes awful toll from thousands of men and women. It thieves vitality. It wrecks energy. It destroys beauty and health itself, and often leads to serious disease. Yet it can be so easily relieved! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation—safely and promptly.

ALL-BRAN vs. part-bran

ALL-BRAN has "bulk." This bulk absorbs moisture and carries it throughout the intestines, gently distending them — purifying, removing poisonous wastes. How different from part-bran products—in which the quantity of bulk is so small that there is seldom enough to be effective. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. Because it is 100% bran.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

Beware of drugs!

Contrast healthful ALL-BRAN with habit-forming pills and drugs, which become useless unless the dose is constantly increased! ALL-BRAN is delicious with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey. Let it soak for a few moments to bring out all its rich flavor. Serve it with other cereals. In soups. Try the recipes on every package.

Don't risk a part-bran substitute. Insist on genuine Kellogg's — the original ALL-BRAN. Sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, restaurants—on dining-cars. Made by the Kellogg Company in Battle Creek, Mich. Write for free "Treatise on Constipation."

Dinner Stories

ACCOMMODATING

The preacher was preaching on the lesser prophets. It had been quite a lengthy sermon already, and it wasn't over yet.

Finally, as the end of the third hour approached, the preacher said. "And now we come to Malachi, the last of the lesser prophets. What will we do with Malachi? Where can we place Malachi?"

Just then an old lady in the rear of the church, who was visibly annoyed by the length of the sermon, arose, saying: "You can give him my seat. I'm going home."

LITTLE MOTHER HAPPY-SPENDS DAY IN JAIL BUT WINS FIGHT

ODIE MAY McMINN, THE "LITTLE MOTHER," AND RIGHT, TOP TO BOTTOM, ETOYLE, SEVEN; THE FATHER, JOHN McMINN, AND NOLA, TEN.

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch To The Gazette

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 30.—Odie May McMinn is one of those "little mothers" you read about.

And she is distinctive in another way. She has just lost a fight—and won it, too.

Last week she was down on police records in New Orleans as a kidnaper. But she isn't a kidnaper any longer.

The "little mother's" story is interesting.

"Mothered" Family of Three.

Four years ago Odie May's mother died. It was then that Odie May began her career as a "little mother." Her "family" consisted of her father, John McMinn, tenant farmer of Bolivar County, Mississippi, and her two little sisters, Nola, now 10 and Etoyle, 7.

Odie May wanted schooling. And she wanted her little sisters to have schooling. But schooling in Bolivar County meant tramping a mile through mud to meet a bus then two miles on the bus.

Odie May conceived a plan. To all outward appearances, she quit the "little mother" job. She came to New Orleans and got a job as a salesgirl. She worked and saved for four years.

Disappears with Sisters

Then she went to Bolivar County for a visit with her father and sisters. The morning after she left for New Orleans, her father discovered Nola and Etoyle were missing.

McMinn found out where the three had gone and he filed charges of kidnaping against Odie May. Telegraph wires carry messages in a hurry and in short order Odie May found herself in jail here. Nola and Etoyle were taken to a children's home.

Odie May told her story to interested court officials and when Papa McMinn arrived in New Orleans he was told he could take the little girls back home, but—

He must see that they went to school!

Kidnaping charges against Odie May were dismissed.

"And I am happy," she says. "I just wanted to be sure the little ones got to go to school."

Who's Who and Timely Views

VOLSTEAD VIOLATORS LIKENED TO REDS

By WILLIAM E. BORAH

United States Senator from Idaho

(William Edgar Borah was born at Fairfield, Ill., June 29, 1865. He was educated at Southern Illinois Academy, Enfield, and the University of Kansas. After being admitted to the bar in 1889 he began to practice law at Lyons, Kan., in 1890. Senator Borah has lived at Boise, Idaho, since 1891. He has been United States Senator since 1907 and, as chairman of the foreign relations committee, is one of the most powerful figures in the senate.)

The Red sits in his dimly-lighted room, around his poorly-laden table, and denounces the provisions of the constitution placed there to protect property. The White sits in his brightly-lighted room, about his richly-laden table, and defiles the provisions of the constitution placed there in the behalf that they would protect the home.

I leave it to all good citizens, whether it is not true that both are traveling the road to lawlessness, both sowing the seeds of destruction, both undermining the whole fabric of law and order.

There are organizations in this country dealing with the subjects of anarchy communism and Bolshevism, the men who come to these shores to overthrow the provisions of the constitution protecting property are not so reprehensible to him as the men who, reared in this country, violate the prohibition law.

Let me say here, not all of them, of course, but many of those people of property, many of those who are most agitated over the question of foreign propaganda and its undermining effect on our constitution are the most pronounced, insistent and persistent violators of the Eighteenth amendment.

The hotbed, the scouting, noisy rendezvous of lawlessness, of cynical defiance to the Eighteenth amendment, is among those of social standing, of large property interests, and in the wealthier homes. Without their patronage, their protection and their example the bootlegger could easily be brought within the control of the law.

Let these people of influence who insist on satisfying their appetites against the expressed will of the American people (the senator points out that all but two states ratified the amendment) understand that they cannot have their property secure, that they cannot have their homes safe, that they cannot protect their wealth and those things which they deeply cherish, if they continue by their examples and by their precepts to sow the seeds of lawlessness throughout the United States.

PARTITION ASKED

Suit asking partition of property has been filed in Common Pleas Court by Gertrude Leavell Sutton against Jesse Leavell, Mary Susan Leavell, Sophia Jennings, William Fields and A. W. Cromwell, as executor of the estate of Canada Leavell deceased. Parties to the action are said in the petition to have an interest in the property involved. Marshall and Marshall are attorneys for plaintiff.

MUST PAY ALIMONY

CANTON, O., Sept. 30.—Common Pleas Judge Charles Krichbaum today had ruled that John C. Popovici, Rumanian consul at Cleveland, must pay alimony of $125 per month pending the hearing of his wife's suit for divorce and must also pay $300 immediately. Mrs. Popovici is a former Canton girl.

Judge Krichbaum's opinion is said to be the first decision on record where a state court has maintained action against a foreign consul.

MAC CRACKEN SAYS QUOTED FALSELY

In a letter of inquiry sent by Mrs. C. L. Flatter, executive secretary of the Anti-Cigaret Alliance of America, to Dr. H. N. MacCracken, president of Vassar College, concerning a reported statement of his in which he said "Tobacco is one of the country's most important crops and men can't smoke it all, why shouldn't the women help," Dr. MacCracken through his secretary, answered: "I unequivocally deny that I made the statement that the women should help the men to consume the tobacco crop of the country. What I said was that I had understood that there was more objection to women smoking in those parts of the country where tobacco was raised than in either the extreme east or the extreme west, and the remark in question was interjected by the reporter and was not my own."

DOG DIES ON DUTY

NEW YORK CITY.—Peaches, mascot dog of the Police Rescue Squad No. 3, was trained to leap from the second story of squad headquarters into the arms of a member of the squad when the alarm sounded.

The bell rang the other day and Peaches, true to her training, leaped. But the figure below was not that of a policeman but a pedestrian.

Squad No. 3 is in mourning because the jump was a bit too high for even a police dog.

The Theater

"Society drama" ranks highest as the type of picture most desired by English film fans. "Pie-throwing" however, is greatly enjoyed, or comedians rank a close second, followed by adventure.

This was learned when 30,000 replies to questionnaires were received among moving picture theaters throughout London. Charlie Chaplin has lost his former popularity, and ranks twelfth among the men stars. Ronald Colman is first with Adolph Menjou second. Constance Talmadge heads the list of women, with Laura LaPlante, Norma Talmadge, Mary Pickford and Poli Negri, runners-up.

Twenty important pictures are in course of production at Paramount's West Coast studios. Foremost of the specials is "Beau Sabreur" companion picture to "Beau Geste" which is being made with Gary Cooper, Evelyn Brent, Noah Beery, William Powell, Joan Standing, Mitchell Lewis. Another is "Now We're In the Air" the last nonsense apic co-starring Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton, with Louise Brooks in a featured role. "A Gentleman Of Paris" starring Adolph Menjou has just been finished, as have "One Woman to Another," with Florence Vidor; "The Street Sin" with Emil Jannings, "Sun Kissed" with Pola Negri, and "Figures Don't Lie" with Esther Ralston.

Douglas Fairbanks has finished canera work on "Over the Andes," his latest which was originally announced as ..The Gaucho." The New York premiere has been set for November.

* * *

Editing has been begun on "Sadie Thompson" Gloria Swanson's latest starring vehicle, by United Artists. "Sadie Thompson" is based on W. Somerset Maughan's "Miss Thompson," from which the stage success "Rain," was taken. Raoul Walsh, in addition to wielding the megaphone has the role of "Sergeant O'Hara" the Marine. The cast also includes Lionel Barrymore as "Alfred Davidson," and other stars.

STEPHENSONISM IS DEAD IN INDIANA IS BELIEF OF LEADERS

MEREDITH NICHOLSON HOOSIER AUTHOR, WHO HAS FAITH IN INDIANA'S FUTURE.

By BONITA WITT
Staff Writer for Central Press and The Evening Gazette

XVIX.

(This, the final chapter on Indiana's political upheaval, looks into the future.)

Suppose David C. Stephenson, once the most powerful political figure in Indiana, now incarcerated in the state prison at Michigan City, does succeed in obtaining his freedom? What changes will he find?

Politicians are convinced he never again can wield the dictatorial power which once was his.

Should Stephenson return from prison they point out he would find:

Attorney General Arthur Gilliom, opposed by Stephenson, elected to succeed the attorney general who told Ed Jackson, then secretary of state, he would have to issue a charter to the Klan under Stephenson.

A Waning Power

Meanwhile Indiana is awaiting the outcome of the investigation started by the gray-haired publisher, Thomas Adams, of Vincennes, and William H. Remy, boyish Marion County prosecutor, who says when this Stephenson affair is ended he will tuck a copy of Keats under his arm, go away for a rest, and write poetry. Although Remy has been ill, he hopes to resume his part in the grand jury room, where the third grand jury is reviewing the stacks of evidence. Both sides have expressed themselves as "well satisfied" with the present grand jury.

Indiana Ready for Change

Indiana, as one citizen put it, "is sick and tired of the whole affair." If Stephenson actually "has the goods" on any officials, the people want to know it, let the charges fall where they may—if the prosecutor finds 'Steve' really has nothing to tell, they want the affair dropped and a new regime begun in the hope that Indiana some day will be able to erase the series of black marks chalked against her in the eyes of the nation.

One of the Indiana writers, Meredith Nicholson, who is actively interested in political science, said to the writer: "Out of all this disgrace and political governmental control which has burdened Indiana in the past we believe some good is certain to come. The people are disgusted with the happenings of the past years. Those of us interested in improving the state are hopeful of the fine step taken by Indianapolis by the adoption of the city manager form of government. It was the women who stuck with us and secured the passage of the amendment. It was the most splendid and courageous fight women have made since suffrage was granted them. If they continue to do battle with us in the future Indiana will come out all right!"

PLAN OPPORTUNITY SCHOOL CAMPAIGN

Plans for the Opportunity School "drive" October 11, were laid at the meeting of officers of the Federated Parent-Teacher Association, at the home of the president, Mrs. C. A. Weaver, W. Market St., Thursday afternoon.

Xenians are urged to keep the date of the drive in mind and to support it generously. Members of the P.-T. A., are anxious to make this year's campaign a success, because of the large amount of good done with the money obtained last year, in feeding and clothing needy children of the city.

THE LADY CALLED FATE

By JOSEPHINE K. LITTLEJOHN

RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ©1927 CENTRAL PRESS Assn.

JOHN MOORE, New York business man, goes to Tucson, Ariz., on business, expecting to return to New York the next day. He meets a college associate, Philip Morton, who has business in Mexico. Both drink heavily of tequila and in the subsequent mixup in identity Moore finds himself in Mexico.

He has in his possession a portrait of a girl which had been Morton's. The girl, Ruth Henshaw, sends her ambassador, Ramon, to tell the supposed Morton that she will meet him at the church at Tubutama. She needs his help. He meets her, also Clench, an associate of her uncle's, and all go to the ranch.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN.

Wong shuffled towards the terrace steps and John and Clench followed after him.

"If you want some tequila—" began Clench.

"Thanks. No. I might wake up somewhere else."

Clench was still pondering this statement when they passed the sunken swimming pool, its waters brazen in the sun, and mounted the steps to the porch. But once inside the big central living room he sank into an easy chair and gave it up.

"No stopee, you. No stopee, you," Wong commanded, beckoning imperiously to John who was lingering to look about him. "Disaway, disaway!" He held open a door leading to the right as he spoke and John obediently preceded him through it.

"At least you know what you want," grinned John. He found himself in a big dim bedroom lighted only by barred windows eight feet above the floor.

Wong shuffled quickly past him and held open a door on the far side of the room. "Come on, come on, I show you!" he droned querulously.

They passed through a second bedroom, then a bathroom and then into still another bedroom. Each time Wong opened the doors and closed them carefully after him.

"This house could withstand a siege from without or within," thought John. "No windows—except those barred skylights. No windows even on the garden side. Just great doors reinforced with iron; bolted top and bottom and in the middle."

In the last room Wong put down the suit case and set about unbolting the porch door. This accomplished, he opened the door and peered out along the porch and down into the garden.

John, watching him idly, wondered what he was looking for.

Leaving the door ajar, Wong slipped to a door in one corner, jerked it open quickly and revealed an empty clothes closet. Apparently satisfied with his inspection he reclosed the door and slipped noiselessly across to a door diagonally opposite. He turned the handle but the door did not open. Bolts held it fast. He slipped the bolts without a sound and stood peering upward into darkness.

"He is not looking for anything. He is listening," thought John, and moved that he, too, might look through the doorway.

At the sound of his step Wong turned swiftly. Seeing only John he held up his hand for silence.

Second after second the two men stood immovable, straining at attention. John's eyes growing more accustomed to the gloom, discovered a spiral stairway ascending just beyond the door. "That," he thought, halting as one is apt to do when listening intently, "is the stairway to the end tower. What on earth is the old chink trying to hear?"

Wong shut the door again and rebolted it. Then he slipped back to the bathroom door by which they had entered and hovered there, listening.

"By Jove! He's beginning the round all over again," thought John. Aloud he said, "Look here! Ghosts don't fly in the middle of the afternoon. What's worrying you? Let me in on this."

Wong shuffled forward until he stood face to face with John and only a foot away from him. The two stared at each other, each striving to pierce the other's mask. The face of the old Chinaman was no more inscrutable than Poker-Face Moore's.

Then suddenly Wong's yellow parchment face crinkled in many directions and a genial illumination shone through the cracks. He was smiling. "You lika de Missy fine. Yaas," he whispered.

"I—what?"

"You lika de Missy fine—yaas, yaas, you do! Sure you do!" Wong urged.

"The Missy? You mean Miss Henshaw?"

"Sure, sure. Lik 'em fine, yaas?" The little black eyes were eager, insistent.

"What in—yes," answered John Moore slowly. "What then?"

Wong gave a quick glance about him, then he swayed nearer to John. "Take Missy way queek, queek!" he whispered.

"Why?" asked John Moore.

"Dey gone now. By-em-by dey come back. Tak' Missy queek. Tak' 'em far so bad man no can get."

The Ambassador—and now this urgent old Chinaman! What evil thing hid within this house?

"Listen," said John Moore. "She won't go now. But when I go I will take her with me."

The light faded behind the wrinkled yellow parchment. "By-em-by no can go. Muchee trouble. No can go."

"When I am ready to go," replied John confidently, "I will go. And I will take your Missy with me!"

Wong dropped his eyes. "No can go," he muttered. "No can go." Like a shadow he slipped out the porch door and was gone.

"He seemed darned sure of that," John mused. "I wonder just how many ways there are of getting out of this place? It might be nearly as difficult to get out as to get in. I'll find out."

In the living room he found Clench asleep in his chair.

John found what he sought quickly enough. On either side of the huge fireplace were two great brass studded doors. He crossed to the nearest one and unbolted it.

Clench awoke with a start.

"I am taking a turn to stretch my legs," said John. "This door opens outside the garden, doesn't it?"

"Sure," yawned Clench. "But they never use it. I'll lock it after you. I think I'll take a nap. Just knock hard if you come back this way."

The great door creaked as John pulled it inward.

"What about the gates down below?"

"They aren't locked until night."

"All right," said John, stepping over the threshold. "See you later."

The door clanged to behind him and he heard the bolts shot home.

ACNE (PIMPLES)

I know a splendid woman who, though very successful in her work, every once in a while gives evidence to me of an inferiority complex. She is very good-looking now, but when she was a girl she had a very bad case of acne, and I believe that her inferiority complex is an aftermath of the long period in her life when she was self-conscious and unhappy on account of her acne.

Different investigators have found that there is always associated with acne a rod-shaped germ which is called acne bacillus. But, as in other germ disorders, there are some special conditions which favor their development.

This special condition is furnished in youth at the time when there is great developmental activity of all the tissues of the body—at adolescence Nature sometimes unfortunately overdoes things at this period and may overdo the activity of the sebaceous or oil glands, causing excess oiliness of the skin This excess oil ma yharden in the skin, and plugs will form which attract the dust and become blackheads (comedones). These block the pores and the acne germs and pus is formed under them.

You can see from this that keeping the blackheads from forming would be a part of the treatment.

Improper diet may be the chief underlying cause of acne, and it certainly is most active in aggravating it. All candy ,rich desserts, and all greasy and fried foods should be eliminated entirely from the diet. And if you are a heavy white bread or cereal eater, you must cut down on these also. You will find an immediate improvement as soon as you regulate your diet. Thorough mastication is very important. Drink liberally of water.

You should have a good bowel movement every day, so you must eat plenty of green vegetables and fruits and some cereal bran or agaragar, if necessary. If you haven't reached maturity yet, you should have the equivalent of three glasses of milk a day. (Two glasses will be sufficient if you are mature.) You can take it as a drink or in simple custards, soups, etc.

It occasionally happens that milk seems to agravate acne. But I believe that in those cases it is due to overheating rather than to the milk, and cutting out sweets and excess starches will lower the diet sufficiently to allow milk. Milk is the most important growth food, and you must satisfy your growth needs. No tea, coffee, cocoa, alcohol, tobacco or spices allowed.

You must stop doing anything that you know lowers your health. You must keep yourself thoroughly clean, physically, morally and mentally. Do you understand? You must get some good physical exercise so that your circulation will be improved. If you are underweight you must gain by gradually eating more wholesome food, getting more sleep and rest; and if you are overweight you must gradually reduce.

If it is possible, you should put yourself under the care of a skin specialist, for your condition sometimes requires special and careful treatment, possibly the X-rays or the ultra-violet rays. (Expose your face to the sun and air as much as you can for these ultra-violet rays.)

LEAGUE SPONSORS DAY NURSERY FOR COLORED BABIES

A day nursery, where colored mothers of the city may leave their children while they go out to work, was opened last Monday at the home of Mrs. Rozelia Washington, 935 E. Second St.

The nursery has been made possible through civic interest of individuals, the Social Service League and other charity workers and is a fulfillment of the long-felt need by the colored mothers who work. A room in the Washington home has been fitted into an attractive nursery, where the children may spend the day playing and receiving the proper care.

Money needed to fit up the room was donated by a Xenia man and the beds, curtains and all furniture have been donated. The room has been done over into bright, cheery colors and the walls are decorated with nursery pictures. All belongings of the children are marked with an individual tag and games and toys are being furnished for the tots' amusement.

Some of the children are in Mrs. Washington's care all day and others only for a few hours. As high as fifteen are cared for some days and the number diminishes other days. Mrs. Washington has been caring for children in the neighborhood the past year and when her work was discovered by people interested the room was fitted up and other arrangements made for the children's proper care. Money needed for the nursery in the future, it is hoped, will be obtained through individuals or organizations interested in the work to be handled through the Social Service League.

BABE ABANDONED

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 30.—Leaving his church study at a late hour last night, Rev. Ferdinand C. Blanchard noticed a white bundle in the rear seat of his automobile which was parked nearby. It proved to be a baby girl, only a few hours old, wrapped in a sheet. The infant has been turned over to a hospital. There is no clue to its identity.

TROOPS PLACED AT DISPOSAL OF CITY; RED CROSS IS BUSY

Woman Tells Story Of How Tornado Struck City

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The war department today formally issued orders placing the 1,000 troops in Jefferson Barracks at the disposal of St. Louis in patrolling the streets of the storm area.

General William Lassiter, commander of the sixth corps area, has left Chicago to take command of the troops. General Harry A. Smith, commander of the seventh corps area, Omaha, was ordered to co-operate with Lassiter.

The department was advised that Lassiter took action last night to move the soldiers to St. Louis.

Army equipment will be available to storm victims.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30—The storm hit the central district with the greatest fury leaving Sarah St. a tangle of wires to the northward.

From the shattered windows of her little confectionary store Mrs. John L. Bromick was able to witness one of the most thrilling spectacles in the storm-ridden city.

The wires with their cross-circuits seemed to color the storm like flames.

"Thirty-five school children had just left after eating lunch and were on their way back to school" she said, "when all of a sudden it became dark. I went to the door. Suddenly the whole street seemed to be ablaze.

"I slammed the door, and held it shut fearing it would catch fire any minute.

"But the children, did they get safely to school?" The school officials report today indicated that by some miracle only a minimum of children suffered from the storm.

Earlier reports had Columbia, Ames, Yeatman, Marquette and Central school buildings slightly damaged, and about forty pupils in all slightly cut by flying glass or bruised.

The total damage to school buildings of the city may reach an estimated $1,000,000, according to Ben Weidle, president of the board of education.

A citizens' committee, hastily organized, was in full cooperation with the Red Cross today in collecting funds for relief work. Charge of this work has already been taken over by the St. Louis chapter of the organization.

Stations hastily improvised were providing shelter for about 5,000 storm victims, and the national guard armory by morning housed some 3,000 persons made homeless by the tornado.

From 600 to 1,000 members of the American Legion were out in the tornado-riddled area, helping in the work of rescue.

By noon today the devastated region was expected to be under the full control of the national guard.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 30.—Many St. Louis insurance men today estimated the damage from yesterday's tornado at $100,000,000 or more. One prominent underwriter said the damage by rain would be greater than wind damage.

The contents of buildings were damaged to the extent of $65,000,000, he asserted, by the torrential rain which followed the storm.

Other insurance men estimated the damage to be between $50,000,000 and $100,000,000.

A more conservative estimate was given by Charles M. Talbert, vice president of the Standard Underwriters' Agency here, who said $50,000,000 would cover the loss.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.— The national Red Cross is prepared to give every assistance possible to the storm sufferers of St. Louis if outside aid is requested, it was announced at headquarters today.

The national organization is waiting for further advices from St. Louis before sending aid. It is likely that Henry M. Baker, national director of Red Cross disaster relief, will go to St. Louis to help in rehabilitation work.

KOENNECKE PLANE FALLS AT BAGDAD

BAGDAD, IRAQ, Sept. 30.—Otto Koennecke's Cologne-to-San Francisco plane Germania crashed today while the German ace was trying to hop off for Basra. The machine was damaged but Koennecke and his two companions were not injured.

A dispatch received in Berlin yesterday from Bagdad carried a report that Koennecke had hopped off yesterday.

ACCUSED IN DEATH

MARGARET HOWARD DIES AFTER INTERURBAN CAR STRIKES SMALL SEDAN

Child's Mother, Mrs. Arthur Howard, And Two Other Children Injured—Woman Driver Did Not See Approaching Freight Car

Margaret Howard, 7, was killed, and her mother, Mrs. Arthur Howard, 33, and two brothers, Arthur Howard, Jr., 3 and James Thomas Howard, aged four months, Snively Road, south of Yellow Springs, were injured, not seriously, when their small sedan was wrecked by a southbound Springfield and Xenia interurban freight car at the Hyde Road crossing, two miles south of Yellow Springs, at 4:20 p. m. Thursday.

The girl, who was a student in the first grade at the Hyde School but had stayed home Thursday morning because of illness, sustained a fracture of the skull, both bones in the left leg were broken below the knee and she received a large cut on the scalp.

Her mother, who was driving the car, and the younger brother and infant child, suffered cuts and bruises, and the baby possible internal injuries, but all were able to be removed to their home on the Robert Leam farm, after receiving treatment from Dr. F. C. Adams, Yellow Springs. Margaret died as she was being carried into the physician's office.

All occupants of the automobile were thrown out of the car. Margaret occupied the rear seat holding the baby in her arms. The others sat in front.

Mrs. Howard was driving the three children to the Hyde school after another daughter, Charlotte Ruth, 13. She was quoted as saying that as she approached the crossing, she neither saw the car nor heard any warning whistle. The freight hit the rear end of the sedan.

Meanwhile, Charlotte Howard had left the school building in the company of a playmate, and having reached a small hill overlooking the crossing, saw the accident take place.

The body was brought to Dr. Adam's office by several men working in fields near the crossing. C. L. Monnett, working on a farm nearby, declared he heard screams and the crash but did not hear the traction whistle. He was one of the first to reach the scene of the accident, along with another farmer, Reo Ross.

Jacob Bowser, Emory, north of Yellow Springs, motorman on the freight car, said the car whistle was sounded. John Shaw was the brakeman. The body of the girl was taken to the Littleton Brothers funeral home at Yellow Springs.

Coroner Frank M. Chambliss, who investigated the accident and interviewed several eye-witnesses, announced his intention Friday of holding a verbal inquest as soon as possible to determine actual responsibility. Several witnesses will be summoned, he said. Mrs. Orpha Howard was near collapse at the office of Dr. Adams following the accident, but was reported in an improved condition Friday. Arthur Howard, the father, was working at home at the time of the accident.

Funeral services for Margaret Howard will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence, with burial in the Yellow Springs Cemetery.

HORSES BURNED TO DEATH AT DAYTON

DAYTON, O., Sept. 30.—Fifty-five polo ponies and fine saddle horses were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the stables of the Dayton Country Club, near here today. Only fifteen animals were saved, and the loss, including the buildings and equipment is expected to reach $300,000. A short circuit in the electric wiring is thought to have caused the fire.

AUTO HITS CHILD

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 30.—Wilfred Dome, 9, today was reported in a critical condition, in a local hospital, after being struck by an automobile as he ran across the street during a rain storm late yesterday.

ARSENAL SUPPLIED FOR PEACE OFFICERS

DAYTON, O., Sept. 30—Montgomery County officials today were awaiting the arrival of two sub-machine guns, 1,500 rounds of .45 caliber steel jacket ammunition, ten machine gun drums of twenty rounds capacity and two of fifty rounds capacity and two bullet proof vests, recently ordered.

With this new equipment at the county jail it is felt that the sheriff's office is prepared for any emergency which might arise.

In the meantime the city has equipped the police department with rapid firing guns of the same type that the county bought and two bullet proof vests.

MASONS WILL MEET AT YOUNGSTOWN

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 30.—Approximately 400 delegates are expected to attend the ninety-eighth annual assembly of the grand council, Royal and Select Masters, and the 111th annual convocation of the grand chapter, Royal Arch Masons of Ohio, here October 4, 5, 6, 7.

Local lodges have appointed committess to make arrangements for handling the meeting.

Harvey M. Rein, of this city is grand master of the Ohio council and Irving Stafford, Cleveland, is Ohio grand priest. O. F. Hart, Columbia, S. C., head of Royal Arch Masons in the United States, is expected to be a guest of honor.

GARY RACE SITUATION WORSE AS COUNCIL IGNORES DEMANDS

GARY, Ind., Sept. 30.—The strike of 1,500 Emerson High School students, protesting the presence in their school of twenty-four negroes, assumed greater proportions here today when the city council refused immediate action upon proposed erection of temporary school shelters for the colored pupils, and continued the hearing until Monday.

The city council flatly turned down the student council's proposal that the negroes be ousted immediately. A mass meeting scheduled in the school auditorium today, it is believed, will bring matters to a crisis.

The Emerson school strike has spread to surrounding schools and anti-negro feeling has manifested itself in the actions of Gary residents, police report.

Police squads continued to patrol the negro section with machine guns and no negro mass meetings are allowed to be held.

FRENCH CABINET PREPARES REPLY TO U. S. TARIFF RATE

Answer Will Be Conciliatory And Will Leave Way For Reply—France Will Argue For Reciprocity, Said

PARIS, Sept. 30.—The general terms of France's reply to the United States tariff note were drawn up today at a meeting of the cabinet at President Doumergue's home at Rambouillet. The reply will be conciliatory and, it is understood, will leave the way open for a rejoinder by Washington. The French document is expected to go to Washington early next week.

It is understood that France will argue for reciprocity, claiming that the United States should make tariff concessions to this country in return for tariff concessions from France.

The work of formulating the draft of the French communication was undertaken after Minister of Commerce Bokanowski made a long report upon the status of the commercial situation between this country and America.

A provisional decision was made that parliament shall reassemble October 18.

The ministers refused to say whether they had discussed Franco-Russian relations, which are somewhat strained over the revolutionary activities of the Soviet Envoy Rakovsky.

HORNSBY WILL FACE GAMBLING CHARGES

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—Rogers Hornsby, second baseman and field leader of the New York Giants, is going back to St. Louis to vindicate himself.

He is going back to clear himself of the charges that he neglected to pay alleged gambling debts. The case will come up in the St. Louis courts late in October.

"They offered to drop the case," he said today, "if I would agree to pay the legal expenses, but I refuse. I want this thing to be fought in the open so all the world may know the truth.

"As for the World's Series, I may see two of the games in Pittsburgh if the Pirates win the pennant, but after that I will go to St. Louis to spend the winter."

MORE QUAKES

MOSCOW, Sept. 30.—Two more severe earthquake shocks were felt in Crimea last night, but no casualties were reported, said a dispatch from Yalta today. The Crimean government is seeking several millions dollars for relief of earthquake sufferers and another million dollars in credit. The earthquake shocks in Crimea have been going on several weeks.

REPORT 23 DROWN IN MANILA TYPHOON

MANILA, Sept. 30—Twenty-three persons were drowned and thirteen others were missing in the towns of Carranglan and Pantabangan, province of Nueva Ecija, as the result of the typhoons of September 17 and 18, according to official reports received here today.

Seven additional deaths were reported from other points in central Luzon.

The mayor of the town of Baler, province of Tayabas, reported that no casualties occurred there, but said that 400 families were made homeless by the storm and estimated property damage amounted to $300,000. A Red Cross steamer has been sent to Baler with food supplies.

ENJOIN UNION FROM INTERFERING WITH PITTSBURGH MINES

Decision Of Federal Judge Most Severe Blow Since Strike

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 30.—The United Mine Workers of America suffered their worst defeat of the present bituminous coal strike when Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker today issued a temporary injunction restraining the union from interfering with operation of the Pittsburgh terminal coal corporation's non-union mines.

Granting of the temporary injunctions means that the United Mine Workers organization is restrained temporarily at least from picketing the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation's several mines in this region.

The Terminal Corporation is the largest union coal operator in the country to renounce the union and endeavor to operate its mines with non-union labor since the bituminous miners walked out on April 1, at the expiration of the Jacksonville wage agreement.

Philip Murray, international vice president of the miners union received first information that the injunction had been granted from International News Service.

"I will have to examine the injunction," Murray said, "before I can make any comment."

MOVE TO LIBERATE AMERICAN HELD BY FRENCH IS STARTED

Lawyer Pleads For Release Of Doty From Military

PARIS, Sept. 30.—A move was begun today to obtain the complete liberation of Bennett J. Doty, American member of the French Foreign Legion, who was released from an eight-year prison term for desertion on condition he complete the four years of his enlistment period in Africa. Doty is now enroute for Algeria to rejoin the Legion.

Doty's lawyer, Charles Campbell, in behalf of Doty's "old and infirm mother," presented a letter to Paul Painleve, chief of the cabinet, thanking him for his kindness in having Doty released from prison, but pointing out that the mother is grieved and disappointed over not seeing her boy. The letter begs the ministry to release Doty from serving the balance of his term of enlistment.

M. Painleve promised to have the case examined and, if it were found possible to release Doty without establishing a precedent, his release probably would be granted.

Following the interview between Campbell and the minister, the former told International News Service:

"I feel confident that Doty will be released soon."

HEAD OF FORTY AND EIGHT WILL SPEAK

A. E. Lile, Columbus, grand chef de gare of Ohio Voiture, Forty and Eight Society, auxiliary organization of the American Legion, will be the principal speaker at a special meeting of Greene County Voiture, No. 140, in the American Legion post hall at the Court House Saturday night at 8 o'clock, it is announced.

Mr. Lile is expected to talk on child welfare work, in which the Ohio Voiture is taking an active part. Other regular business will be transacted.

DISTRIBUTE FILMS

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 30—Distribution to American Legion Posts and the general public of five reels of amateur standard film picturing activities of the A. E. F., soon will be under way, it has been announced by the Eastman Kodak Company.

Condensed from the 2,000,000 feet of Signal Corps film by the Kodak concern working in cooperation with the War Department, the five reels give a vivid picture of all phases of America's participation in the World War.

The film was shown on ships bearing the second A. E. F., to Paris for their annual convention and met with enthusiastic reception, it was declared. After the legionnaires return the film will be made available to posts wishing an individual record. To this film will be added a reel showing the high lights of the Paris convention.

STORM INJURES 700; ESTIMATE DAMAGES AT HUNDRED MILLION

City Will Not Require Outside Aid Says Mayor—Relief Agencies On Scene—Storm Felt Throughout Section

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 30.—With seventy-five known dead from yesterday's tornado, at least 700 injured at private homes and hospitals and property damage mounting to more than $20,000,000 the spirit of St. Louis and its people today surmounted all handicaps in relief work, brought succor to storm distressed citizens and arranged for the rehabilitation of those whose loved ones and homes were lost.

"We asked for aid from St. Louis residents and the response has been so great we do not need outside help," Mayor Victor J. Miller said today after his appeal for funds to residents here had been broadcast. "The regular army troops from Jefferson Barracks here are scheduled this afternoon to relieve some of our policemen and national guardsmen who have been on duty since yesterday afternoon, but our local Red Cross and other relief agencies have met the emergency relief situation nobly."

After a night of relief work supervised by the Red Cross, with rescue and patrol duties being taken care of by police, national guardsmen, and 800 soldiers from Jefferson Barracks to patrol and guard the devastated districts, an appeal for funds to help in relief work was issued by Mayor Victor J. Miller as follows:

"To the people of St. Louis:

"An emergency need affecting hundreds of our fellow St. Louisians exists as the result of yesterday's storm.

"After personally surveying as much of the area as the debris and wreckage would permit, I feel that the extent of the havoc and the consequent suffering makes this call for immediate relief necessary.

"Through the splendid response of the police, the fire department, the American Red Cross, the National Guard, the American Legion and other organizations, the wounded and suffering are being cared for.

"It is difficult in the first flush of the disaster to measure the fullest extent of the sufferings or to estimate the ultimate requirements for complete alleviation. These facts can be ascertained for later use. The fact that there are homeless victims to be housed, provisioned and clothed until mature plans for rehabilitation can be arrived at makes an immediate and liberal response on the part of our own citizens necessary.

"The acknowledged great national agency—the American Red Cross—being so thoroughly equipped by experience and supplied with a staff to administer this relief, I, as mayor am asking for the sake of single effectiveness that all aid be concentrated in this organization.

"Dollars are the necessary and immediate need.

"Subscriptions can be made through any bank or mailed to Mr. Fred Oltman, acting treasurer of the American Red Cross, St. Louis chapter care the Mercantile Trust Co.

"Let every citizen respond in the name of those unforunate St. Louisians who have given shoulder to shoulder with you in many other worthy causes."

Fully six square miles of buildings and streets were devastated by the tornado.

While rescue squads were being reinforced today, national guard units were being posted about to prevent looting and riots.

The storm, reaching St. Louis about 1 o'clock in the afternoon, gained in intensity as it tore through Manchester and Taylor Avenues.

Widening out it spread northward to Prairie Avenue, then east to Glasgow.

The tornado traveled at the rate of about sixty miles an hour. Accompanied by a terrific rainstorm, it tore through residences and factory buildings, uprooted trees, tore out telephone wires and toppled over street lamps.

Augmented by 800 soldiers of the National Guard, hundreds of police, firemen and volunteers, the Red Cross workers continued to comb the ruins for additional victims.

All night the bodies of the dead and injured were being taken to various hospitals and morgues.

As body after body was being recovered from the debris of buildings, workers predicted that the total of deaths might reach or exceed 100.

RECALLS DISASTER

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 30—The tornado recalls to St. Louisians the worst storm in the history of the city, on May 27, 1896, when 350 persons were killed and 1,200 injured with property damage of $20,000,000. Many blocks of residences were completely demolished. A total of 321 buildings were destroyed and 7,263 were damaged. Train and street car service was suspended and the city was in darkness. The path of the storm was about a mile wide and the extreme velocity of the wind was 120 miles an hour.

GIRL SUFFERS HEAD INJURY WHEN AUTO HITS PARKED COACH

Miss Effie Hager, about 20 years of age, 40 Stanton Ave., Dayton, O., sustained a scalp wound which required two stitches to close, in an unusual auto accident on Xenia Ave. in Yellow Springs at 10 o'clock Thursday night.

The accident occurred when a sedan in which she was riding in the front seat driven by Miss Beatrice Huber, 219 Pleasant St., Dayton, O., crashed into the rear of an unoccupied coach, owned by Herbert Ellis, Yellow Springs, parked across the street from Ellis' place of business.

The impact hurled the girl forward in the seat, her head crashing through the windshield. She was taken immediately to the Antioch College clinical department where the deep cut was dressed by Dr. Leslie Sonthe, and the two stitches taken.

Her companion, who was driving the car north along the avenue, had turned around in the seat to look at two youths, following them in another machine and honking their horn as a signal they were about to pass, and bystanders declared she neglected to keep an eye on the road ahead.

The sedan was owned by Leonard Fester, 523 Brightwood Ave., Dayton, who had driven over from Dayton. He had left the car in charge of the girls, while he ran an errand. The girls were riding up the street for a short distance to turn the car around when the crash occurred.

Neither machine was particularly damaged. Ellis' car was forced against another parked car, a sedan, owned by Leroy Lowe, Yellow Springs, and then over the curb on to the sidewalk. The sedan was being driven slowly at the time.

Willis Jones, village marshal, investigated the accident.

FURNISHES BOND

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 30.—Former Justice Frank B. Riss, indicted by the County grand jury on a charge of embezzling $1100 of public funds, collected in liquor raids when he was justice of the peace, today was at liberty under $4000 bond, pending trial. Sheriff Peter Corll says Riss was dismissed as deputy sheriff last July.

GAINS FREEDOM

DAYTON, O., Sept. 30.—Willard Barnett, alias Omer Fisher, was free here today on a writ of habeas corpus, after extradition to West Virginia was refused by the office of Governor Donahey, because of defective legal papers. Barnett was wanted by West Virginia officials, on a charge of murder in connection with the death of his wife.

FIVE ARRESTED

JERUSALEM, Sept. 30.— Five persons were arrested today and held without bail charged with complicity in a plot to assassinate Mayor Nashashibi, of Jerusalem, and two of his friends. One of the prisoners is an official of the Moslem supreme council.

THREE CLASSES OF SINNERS ARE DESCRIBED BY EVANGELIST

"Too many people think they are infidels when they are but following some one else, not having done any thinking themselves. Talk about being an infidel.—you are not an infidel. You are just a little 'infer-hell' because that is where you are headed for if you do not quit treating God the way you have."

"Outside of the Christians here, there are three kinds of people," he said. "First, are those who are held by some passion or appetite; second, those who are utterly indifferent to Jesus Christ and their own condition; third, there are those who are skeptical about the claims of Christ and the reality of the Christian Religion. There are three sinner classes. If you are not a Christian you belong to one of these classes and you are a sinner.

"We are never beneath hope while above hell." He described the incidents in connection with the text, "Almost Lost, but Saved," as it appears in the New Testament recording the life of Paul. He endeavored to make the assembled company imagine they were on shipboard and going through some of the experiences of Paul. He applied the story to the condition of the soul on life's ocean, in a storm of doubt and unbelief; and begged the people not to follow infidels.

In spite of the inclement weather a large crowd attended Thursday afternoon's service, when special "Mother's Day" exercises were observed. Dr. W. E. Biederwolf delivered a sermon on "Mother" paying a glowing tribute to motherhood as the hope of America.

Homer Grimes led in many old favorite songs. Later, Dr. Biederwolf called for requests for hymns which were old, several of the people recalling songs, long forgotten, their mothers sang. A poll of those present was taken and one foreign country and sixteen states were represented as places of birth of those in attendance. Two were present who had reached their eighty-eighth year, Mrs. Anna R. Baker and Mrs. Hannah Oglesbee, who were given a basket of flowers apiece. J. Milton Kelly sang "Mother Machree". The platform was covered with an abundance of flowers and more than 100 bouquets were sent to aged women and shut-ins Friday.

Thursday evening, after the song service and the recognition of Dr. Biederwolf's birthday, Dr. W. N. Shank led in prayer. Mr. Kelly repeated "Mother Machree" by request.

Friday will be "High School and Young People's Night" when Dr. Biederwolf will speak on "How I Won the Championship in Bicycling," "County Day" will be celebrated Saturday but on account of the wet weather, the community picnic, planned for Shawnee Park, will be held at the First M. E. Church at 12 o'clock.

"Chautauqua Hour" will be held at 2 o'clock when entertaining features have been arranged, and Dr. Biederwolf will speak on "The Old Fashioned Home" at 3 o'clock. Saturday evening, "The Second Coming of Christ" will be the speaker's subject.

"Rally Day" for Sunday Schools will be held Sunday, and "Atonement" will be the evangelist's subject Sunday evening. The services will continue until October 9.

SIXTEEN CASES ON CRIMINAL DOCKET FACING GRAND JURY

Sixteen cases are now listed on the criminal docket for consideration by the grand jury when it convenes in Common Pleas Court for the October term of court Monday morning.

Four persons were bound over within the past few days by R. O. Copsey, justice of the peace, while a fifth case against Frank Flaugher is a holdover from the last term of court. These are additions to eleven cases already on file.

Thomas Fink, charged with assaulting Bernice Fink, June 24, was held for grand jury action under $100 bond, which he furnished after pleading not guilty.

Clarence Garrett, colored, Xenia, was bound over to Common Pleas court on a charge of attempting to assault Roy Minor, a cripple.

Squire Copsey bound Lester Mitchell, Xenia, and Andrew Furay, Cedarville, to the grand jury on charges of rape. Furay pleaded not guilty this week and failed to furnish $500 bond.

BOB OWENS OFFERS HOME TALENT SHOW FOR LEGION WOMEN

"Sensations of 1927" written and directed by Robert Owens, and sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion, will be presented at City Hall Theater the latter part of October, it was disclosed Friday.

The "Sensations" will be presented in two acts and seventeen scenes and an unusual type of show is promised by Mr. Owens. The initial practice will be held Monday, October 3, at 7 p. m., in the basement of the Court House.

The type of the show will be along that of Vanieies" "Scandals" and the "Follies" on the big-time circuit. The necessary pretty girls, tuneful melodies, newest dance steps and clean-cut comedy will feature the show, with emphasis laid on the music and comedy. The show will boast a cast of about thirty, including old and new favorites of home-talent productions.

Praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mrs. Annie Kwinski of 526 1st Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis., writes that she became so weak and rundown that she was not able to do her housework. She saw the name Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the paper and said to her husband, "I will try that medicine and see if it will help me." She says she took six bottles and is feeling much better.

Mrs. Mattie Adams, who lives in Downing Street, Brewton, Ala., writes as follows: "A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and since taking it I feel like a different woman."

With her children grown up, the middle-aged woman finds time to do the things she never had time to do before—read the new books, see the new plays, enjoy her grandchildren, take an active part in church and civic affairs. Far from being pushed aside by the younger set, she finds a full, rich life of her own. That is, if her health is good.

fronted relief workers, as they ploughed through heap after heap of debris in search of bodies.

Police ran about shouting warning all night to weeping women and children who were running about the streets seeking relatives, and to men digging frantically through the piled up wreckage in search of lost ones.

Confusion reigned throughout, with authorities working madly to clear the streets.

The grim work of rescue went on all through the night, all through the morning hours, under candle and lantern light, as bodies were taken in clanging ambulances through the streets.

The immensity of the damage to life and property seemed to exceed all predictions as the work went on, so terrible was the picture of desolation spread out before the relief workers.

School children were returning from their noon hour recess when the tornado broke relentlessly upon the city.

Workmen were returning to labor. Young and old alike dashed wildly here and there seeking places of safety, as the tornado, aided by torrents of rain, went on with its work of destruction. Walls of buildings seemed to burst apart, bricks and glass and automobiles were tossed about like wisps.

There were patients in the Mullanphy Hospital at the time the storm broke. The wind side-swiped the building, ripped the entire west wing to shreds, and sent the roof and upper floor crashing to the ground.

None was in that section at the time, but below were a score and more of expectant mothers or mothers with babes in arms—the maternity section.

The Columbia school at 2750 Garrison Ave., was again struck by the elements. By curious circumstances this building has been wrecked by fire and storm several times during recent years. Approximately 700 pupils in the school were in their various class rooms when Principal G. H. Green took note of the approaching storm.

"I sounded the warning" he said. "The children all marched out of the building and in perfect order. Just as the last one stepped out to safety, the roof caved in and the third-floor class rooms were buried beneath tons of debris."

Next door to the Columbia school, the St. Nicholas Greek Church was partly unroofed. Its windows were blown in. Directly north of it the Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church lost its steeple.

Thirty men were at work in the Central Furniture Co., factory at 2527 St. Louis Ave., when, without a moment's warning, a torrent of rain fell and the front of the building collapsed.

"It was terrible," said Charles Williams, a chauffeur. "Before the wind died down I heard men screaming for help. I tried to get to them but another wall collapsed and I ran for my life. I don't know where I was going but I was getting away from here."

Nineteen men were trapped in this building but eighteen were extricated almost immediately and taken to their homes, none being seriously injured. One workman being unaccounted for.

A row of apartment houses at Slattery and Benton streets was litterally ripped apart, the buildings being crumpled like paper mache.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 30.—Five persons were known to be dead today in three Illinois towns that were struck by the tornado traveling northeast across the Mississippi River, Granite City, Venice and Madison.

At least a score of persons suffered injuries as a result of the violent windstorm.

RUDY, Ark., Sept. 30.—With the exception of approximately ten homes, the residence section of this town of 300 population was a total wreck today as a result of yesterday's tornado which injured more than a dozen persons.

Mrs. Mack Stanfield and the infant daughter of Mrs. Marvin Graham are probably fatally injured. Mrs. Stanfield has both hips broken and the infant is severely cut about the head.

The World And All

BY CHARLES B. DRISCOLL

IN NEW YORK

One of the wonders of New York to me has always been the manner in which individuals calmly plunged out of windows at great heights, and landed in the crowded streets and courts, and never hurt anybody but themselves.

I have watched this New York practice of jumping and falling and being thrown out of windows for years, and still the wonder grew that the pedestrian public down in the streets has gone unscathed.

Just recently one of the men who used to wash the window of my office in the Times building, slipped while passing from one window to another, on the twenty-second floor, and fell to the busy sidewalk below. He was a nice fellow, but a bit careless. He had fallen once before, but not more than three months prior to his final fall. That time he had fallen only eight floors, and had landed on his feet in the midst of the rushing crowd. There had been little excitement about it, and Tony was taken home, where he recuperated for two weeks.

When Tony returned to work I asked him how he was getting along. "All right," he said. "My feet are weak, since I fell on them. I wash them every night in strong red wine. That makes them strong."

But when Tony fell twenty-two stories, he did not land on his strong feet, and he died. It was nearly noon, and the crowd in the Square was dense. But nobody was hit.

Women jump out of windows in the more expensive hotels with amazing frequency, and never jar more than the nerves of those on the sidewalks where they fall.

Many jumpers fall upon passing automobiles, and this proves expensive to the owner of the car, who immediately tries to remember whether his insurance covers damage by jumpers from tall buildings.

But recently we had a break in this remarkable series of escapes for pedestrians. Robert McGroarty, who made a name for himself as stage manager of the successful play, "The Road to Rome," was walking along West Forty-fourth St. in the afternoon. Thousands of others were passing back and forth on the busy sidewalk, but it fell to poor McGroarty to be right in the path of the latest hurtling body. The stage manager was killed, his back broken.

VICTIMS OF MENTAL DISEASE INCREASE CENSUS INDICATES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 —Increasing at a rapid rate since the war, 178,353 victims of mental diseases were under institutional care in thirty states January 1, the bureau of the census announced today. In four years the mental hospital enumeration increases from 218 to 226 per 100,000 population.

First admissions to mental hospitals last year in the states surveyed showed an increase of 7 1-2 per cent over 1925, numbering 36,936 patients, who had not previously been under institutional care.

Census officials explained that first admissions gains were only slightly greater than the general increase in population. The larger, figure, both of admissions and hospital population, possibly were attributable to better medical supervision and consequently to more extensive treatment of this type of disease.

In proportion to the population there were a greater number of first admissions to mental hospitals in the District of Columbia than any other state with 121 to the 100,000 inhabitants. This, it was learned, is chiefly due to the fact that many veterans of the World War, are committed to government mental hospitals here.

The greatest number of mental patients were in hospitals in New York with 43,438. The rate for total inmates was 810 per 100,000 population in the District of Columbia and 383 in New York. Other states ranked comparatively low.

The census bureau is now completing a census of federal and state prisons which it was understood, would show a material increase over 1925.

PIMPLES AND BLACK-HEADS ALL OVER FACE

Munden, Va., Aug. 5:—"Awhile ago I began to be troubled with enlarged pores and blackheads. Then pimples developed, and even boils. My skin was very sore and in a terrible condition. It was so disfigured and unsightly I was ashamed of it. I tried about everything to be had for pimples, but with no good results. I had heard Resinol Ointment and Soap so highly recommended for troubles like mine, I decided to try them. After one treatment there was a decided improvement, and the pimples began to fade away. I advise everybody with skin trouble to try Resinol." (Signed) Miss Hazel Beasley.

MARSHAL FINDS NO TRACE OF ALLEGED CHICKEN THIEVES

Willis Jones, Yellow Springs village marshal, who investigated a report of an attempted robbery of the chicken house on the farm of Millard Coffman, one mile west of Yellow Springs, off the Dayton Pike at 10 o'clock, Thursday night, could find no trace of the prowlers who are thought to have been frightened away by a passing automobile.

Members of the family told the marshal they had seen two suspicious looking white men snooping around the barn and chicken house with a flashlight, but the intruders had fled before the officer's arrival.

Investigation disclosed that the strangers had made an attempt to enter the chicken house, and had also evidently entered the barn, which had been left unlocked, for the hood on Coffman's automobile in the barn had been raised, it was found.

Farmers in the vicinity have reported a series of small chicken thefts recently, according to the marshal.

FINANCIAL AID FOR FARMERS DISCUSSED

COLUMBUS, Sept. 30.—Financial aid for Ohio farmers, taxation and building prospects for 1928 are some of the problems to be discussed at the 39th annual convention of the Ohio Building and Loan League at Toledo, October 18-21.

More than 2,000 building and loan officials are expected to attend the four day session. Some of the best known building and loan speakers in the country are on the program.

In issuing the convention call, James A. Devine, Columbus, secretary of the building and loan Men's state organization, pointed out the need for decentralization of building and loan funds from metropolitan centers. Of the $100,000,000 increase in resources last year, $80,000,000 went into building and loan companies in six of the larger cities in Ohio. "With a recession in the building industry and a surplus of funds in metropolitan sections, millions of dollars will be available to Ohio farmers, said Devine.

The convention will be asked to consider a new form of farm loan, covering a long term of years and providing a minimum interest rate.

COUNTERFEIT NOTE IS IN CIRCULATION

Information that a $10 counterfeit gold certificate is in circulation, has been received from postal authorities by Postmaster C. S. Frazer.

The note is from the series of 1922 and bears check letter C, with a portrait of Michael Hillegas and the signature of H. V. Spellman, registrar of the treasury.

The note is described as being a dangerous counterfeit. It is one-fourth inch shorter than the genuine, readily suggesting the spurious quality of the certificate, it is said. The back is printed in a rich orange shade which makes a better appearance than the face.

SKIRT BRINGS TROUBLE

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 30.—Because he wore a gingham dress during the harvest season, John Nagy, a neighbor, struck Albert Teupner, of Parma, with a fence post, according to a petition filed in Common Pleas Court by Teupner asking $5,000 damages. Teupner admitted wearing the gown which he refused to take off when Nagy claimed it distracted his farm hands' attention, and interfered with his work.

PENSION IS PAID

YOUNGSTOWN, Sept. 30.—Henry Ebert, 69, has received a pension check for $1,431 from the government for the services of his father, Charles Ebert, who was killed in the Civil war.

An Outline Of Fashion

This is the fourth of the series of six articles on the "Outline of Fashion." Yesterday we discussed the "Age of Innocence," which finally eliminated the hoop. Today's topic is the gradual moderation of style tendencies toward the close of the nineties.

By MME. LISBETH
Fashion Expert for Central Press and The Evening Gazette

By 1870 the fashionable skirt had become so tight and scant that milady had to bind her knees together when she walked. Draperies had been added to the sides and back like panniers, and a bustle held the dress out in the back. The costume, too, was trimmed with all sorts of plaitings, puffs, bows of ribbon, fringes and ruffles of lace.

By 1879 there was a noticeable moderation, but still the tie-back at the knee-line was in vogue and skirts were trimmed elaborately and trained. Bodices were plain, with long, fitted sleeves, and looked small and short in combination with the overly-trimmed skirts.

The "Polonaise."

The" polonaise" came next, worn over a kilted or flounced skirt. It was fitted in front from the shoulders to about the knee, and had two Watteau plaits which were looped up to form a large bustle in the back. It was buttoned straight up the front to the neck, where it was usually finished with a standing collar and a ruche. The sleeves were still tight and long.

The outdoor garment of this period was the dolman, a wrap shaped somewhat like the polonaise, but with circular open sleeves. With this was worn the small bonnet, similar to the style of 1870, except that strings had been added.

Bustle Passes.

The fashion of 1885 shows the bustle at its most exaggerated period. After that the styles moderated until in 1890 the leg-o'-mutton sleeve was revived. These huge sleeves, held out by stiffening crinoline skirts that fitted at the hips but flared out to six, seven and even more yards around the bottom, were the rage. Fortunately the hoop was not brought back, but the large hats were, balanced, this time, on huge pompadours of hair.

With the ushering in of 1900, balloon shoulders and flaring skirts were subsiding and the tailored, straight front mode was born.

INSPECTION OF SCHOOL PUPILS TO PREVENT DISEASE STOPPED

Medical inspection of school children, which has been made each week during the past month to prevent the outgrowth of any infantile paralysis epidemic here, is being discontinued this week, it was announced Friday. No cases of the disease have been found in the local schools.

There has been relatively few cases of any contagious diseases discovered during the examination, a Xenia physician said Friday. A large number of children have been sent home by the doctors when they showed slight symptoms of illness, and the co-operation of the parents with the health and school authorities has been largely responsible in stopping the spread of any disease. The board of education and heads of the public and parochial schools unite with the physicians in expressing their appreciation of the parents co-operation in the work, it is said.

Weekly bulletins have been received here from the State Department of Health regarding the status of the infantile paralysis epidemic in the state, which now indicate that the epidemic is still as severe as it has been in the past few weeks in those counties where it was first discovered, but that few new cases have been reported in other counties.

The doctors are asking the continued co-operation of the parents of school children in keeping them home when they are dismissed from school with slight symptoms of disease, and thus isolating them from other children and preventing the spread of any germs.

TAIL OF TORNADO IS FELT IN COUNTY

Effect of the ninety-mile an hour gale that spread disaster in its wake at St. Louis at noon Thursday, was felt slightly in Xenia Thursday night, but the wind was not of sufficient intensity to cause property damage.

While receiving no reports of damage, J. R. Kimber, county agent, estimated the high wind and heavy rain may have hurt crops.

Tales Off The Reel

VOL. 1. FRIDAY, SEPT. 30, 1927 NO. 52

One man, we hear, managed to stop his wife from talking so much by putting concrete in her beauty clay.

Sam Shanks of New Burlington, is a real Ubiko booster. He was in the other day to get a batch of feed and volunteered the information that Ubiko Egg Mash was the best he ever had fed.

The only time we have any trouble with rheumatism is when we try to spell it.

It's high time you were using some Egg Mash on those hens. Get them in trim at once for the best egg months of the year by feeding Ubiko or Commercial Egg Mash. Inquiries are solicited.

Mother's in the attic,
Warm blankets to acquire,
Father's in the basement,

Coal is gradually climbing the grade of price. We cannot urge you too strongly to protect yourself by entering your order now. Miller's Creek or W. Va. Block will suit you.

At the B. & O. station the other day a very large lady and two children were waiting for a train. The children finally got fussy. Taking a big suitcase off the seat, the mother opened it up and took out two toy balloons, both completely inflated and ready to go. Personally, we've never found room in our suitcase for a couple of balloons after we got through packing.

Wanted:—We could use some good, green, first-class alfalfa hay. If you have any for sale, call us.

"A deplorable sign of the times is the way the English language is being polluted by vulgar American slang." "You sure slobbered a bibful there."

We received cars of bran, midds, Ubiko Feeds, salt, and flour since we wrote up our last edition. Pretty well stocked.

Farm Notes

FARM CROPS DECREASE

Less corn, cotton, apples, peaches tobacco, and sugar beets; more wheat, oats, barley, rye, buckwheat, hay, white potatoes, and grapes.

That is how production estimates, as of September 1, compare with last year for the United States on the more important farm products. The differences between this year and last in detail, according to rural economists at the Ohio State University, are as follows:

Corn, 7.2 per cent less than last year; wheat, 3.4 per cent more; oats, 4.7 per cent more; barley, 37.8 per cent more; rye, 50 per cent more; buckwheat, 19.4 per cent more; cotton, 29.4 per cent less; tame hay, 17.5 per cent more; apples, 49.9 per cent less; peaches, 35.7 per cent less; white potatoes, 12.3 per cent more; tobacco, 12.8 per cent less; sugar beets, 9.3 per cent less; grapes, 8.7 per cent more.

Corn and potato production is considerably dependent on weather after September 1, the date on which the above statistics are based.

The total United States potato crop is estimated at 400 million bushels, 12.3 per cent greater than last year but only slightly above the 5-year average.

Corn crop estimates show a decrease of 7.2 per cent for the country as a whole, with most the decrease in the Central States east of the Mississippi. Ohio is scheduled to have a crop of about 98,000,000 bushels, is compared with 145 million bushels last year, and 145 million bushels as a 5-year average.

AUTOIST HELD FOR RECKLESS DRIVING PLEADS NOT GUILTY

After pleading not guilty to a charge of reckless driving before Probate Judge S. C. Wright Friday morning in connection with an auto accident on the Xenia and Springfield Pike last Sunday, R. E. Richardson, Church and Mechanic Sts., was released by Sheriff Ohmer Tate under orders to report to the sheriff of Fayette County, who had requested his arrest for alleged failure to pay the balance of a fine recently inflicted on a charge of driving a car while intoxicated.

Richardson's wife is reported to have been painfully injured about the head in the accident last Sunday. Authorities did not learn the details.

Sheriff Tate also received a criminal execution from the Fayette County Probate Court, asking that Richardson be returned to that county. It is charged he has failed to pay $90, remaining due on a fine and costs recently imposed in that county.

After he had pleaded not guilty to the reckless driving charge Friday, Judge Wright fixed his hearing for Friday morning, October 7, at 9 a. m. His bond was set at $200.

JAMES M'CURRAN AGAIN ELECTED

James McCurran was re-elected grand knight of Xenia Council, No. 1801, Knights of Columbus, for the coming year, at the annual meeting at council hall, S. Detroit St., Wednesday night. All other officers were re-elected with the exception that Walter Neville was selected as the new recorder.

Daniel E. Butler, Toledo, O., inspector for this district of Knights of Columbus, and J. Lynn Cochran, Dayton, O., district deputy, addressed the meeting.

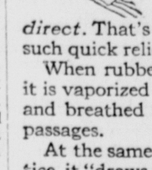

Officers elected for the coming year are:

BIBLE THOUGHT

A PERSONAL EXHORTATION:—Bless the L O my soul: and all that is within me, bless His Holy Name. Psalm 103:1.

SHIFTING BLAME FOR WAR

President Von Hindenburg's official denial that Germany was responsible for the World war is supported by a secret United States document in the congressional library, according to Robert L. Owen, former senator from Oklahoma.

The document, a study of World war responsibility, was prepared by the library on order of the United States senate. The order was contained in a resolution presented by Senator Owen and adopted by the senate in 1925.

In his book, "The Russian Imperial Conspiracy," just published, Owen asserts, "under the United States senate resolution to collate the evidence on the origin of the World war, Charles E. Tansil, expert historian, was assigned the task and is now convinced of the Russian and French responsibility. His book has not been published as a government document for reasons of diplomatic amity."

Owen's own book came from the press just a few days before the historic speech at Tanneberg, September 18, in which Hindenburg said, "The accusation that Germany was responsible for this greatest of all wars we hereby repudiate. On the contrary, the war with all the terrible sacrifices it demanded from the whole country was an extreme measure resorted to in the preservation of our existence against a host of enemies. Germany is ready at any moment to prove this fact before impartial judges."

The United States study of war guilt was supposed to be presented to the senate foreign relations committee in February, 1926. At that time the work was still incomplete and the committee apparently decided to let the matter die.

All copies of the unprinted document have remained since that time under lock and key in the congressional library and officials have declined to make any statement of its contents.

All of this has precipitated a situation admitted to be unique in the world's history.

COMMON SENSE AND COURAGE

Schlee and Brock, pilots of the world flight in the "Pride of Detroit," showed excellent judgment when they stopped at Tokyo and decided to go no further. Under present conditions, the attempt to fly across the Pacific ocean would be very likely to result fatally. It sometimes takes more courage to give up a cherished project than to go ahead in the face of too great obstacles and dangers.

These fliers performed a most remarkable feat of navigation, having covered 12,275 miles in 18 days. They have met all possible difficulties of climate and weather and high mountains and adverse air currents. But the terrible obstacle in the form of the Pacific ocean seems far too much for the present stage of aviation.

It is wise to reognize the limitations established by nature, until the inventions of man prove wholly equal to overcome them.

THE STICKING QUALITY

After having been a school teacher for 53 years a Pennsylvania woman has won her degree from a college. It was a life-time ambition with her. In her earlier years she did not have the opportunity. So many so-called ambitions are just sudden enthusiasms. Most of us lack the sticking quality in ambition. The thing we think we want to do today we don't want to do tomorrow. The big rewards of life are for those whose ambition, next year, will not have gone stale.

CHAMPIONITIS

There is an epidemic of championitis abroad. Some man wants to sit on the top of a flag pole longer than anybody else ever did. Another man is bound to fly fasted and farther, and another man insists on breaking the record for eatiing eggs. Tens of thousands gather to see a prize fight, not so much because they care for prize fighting as because the fight determines a championship.

Silly, somebody says. And yet it's not silly. In that idea are the germs of real progress. Competition has pushed the world forward. The quest for championship sometimes leads into strange path- and to absurd lengths, but the quest is a healthy one.

LOVE

Somebody writes and suggests a paragraph on love. Nobody can write very intelligently on love. Love means different things to different people. Perhaps the true test of love lies in the desire to give without thought of getting. If you can't pass that test you are not in love.

AS TO BEING SHOCKED

Beware of losing the ability to be shocked, says Henry Churchill King, great educator. Dean Swift said: "I never wonder to see men wicked, but I often wonder to see them not ashamed."

If there is anything worse than doing evil, it is to feel no repentance. If there is anything worse than a bad system of living it is to build up a defense for that system of living. To make a philosophy which excuses evil and to try and believe that philosophy is worse than many a bad act.

IT'S THE BRAIN

Gertrude Ederle swam the English channel, and it was admitted that her exploit was the greatest in combined speed and endurance ever credited to a woman. Few today think much about Gertrude Ederle, although she performed a most creditable physical feat. Despite a very small handful of prize fighters and others, the world in the long run pays a much higher price for brains. Young folks will do well to remember that.

The Daybook Of A New Yorker

By Burton Rascoe

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch To Middletown Journal

NEW YORK, Sept. 29. — There is no necessity to pay for amusement in this city.

A wandering salesman in the Forties drives up to the curb in a small sedan. He takes out a queer looking instrument and with it jacks up the car with singular ease. A crowd collects to watch and he starts his sales talk on the instrument, which is operated on a novel principle — that of hydraulic pressure. He will take your name and address, if you wish, and the jack, which sells for about $10, will be sent to your home c. o. d.

Lower Broadway is entertained by a tall, morbid-looking man who, although well dressed, walks slowly about, sandwiched between two billboards. And the letter thereon declares:

"Behold, I am the Wandering Jew, God's Messenger. These Words did God speak unto me. 'Fear not, I heard thy prayer and this is the remedy for war. Set aside one day of universal worship, each one to go to their own church or synagogue and I will abolish war from the Earth. I, the Lord God, Creator of Heaven and Earth, have spoken it.'"

No one knows who this prophet is, nor for what reason he thus attempts the salvation of a wicked city. Nor does he volunteer the source from which he secured this alleged divine promise.

A new five-and-ten-cent store is soon to be opened on Forty-second street, opposite Bryant park. In the meantime, the spectacle of some half dozen painters, decorating the ceiling of the unfinished store, is more than sufficient to keep the attention of a goodly number of citizens.

The New York postoffice is accustomed to deciphering unintelligible addresses. Recently a postcard was received addressed to "Al, N. Y. U. S. A." The canny gents at the postoffice forwarded the letter to Governor Alfred Smith. It was meant for him.

Everyone is wondering why a great many of the stores have wired X-shaped wooden pieces to the center of their show windows. With the construction of new subway lines, to say nothing of the enormous excavations under way for the foundations of new buildings, the stores must brace their windows. Otherwise, the shocks of repeated blasting would make short work of the plate glass.

KELLYGRAMS

by Fred C. Kelly

Bigamy and Curiosity

On three different occasions it has fallen to my lot to carry the news to a forsaken wife that her husband has sauntered off with another girl and committed bigamy.

I had always been curious to know what a woman would do or say on learning that her husband is a bigamist. I was picked as bigamy messenger the first time—to my great delight — by mere chance, because I happened to be the only reporter handy. But some months later I was the logical selection, since I was the only man on our paper who had had experience at carrying bigamy tidings. After that I was so fascinated with such assignments that the city editor hadn't the heart to send anybody else. Everybody has to have a hobby, and mine had become Breaking Bigamy News. Anyone having such information to convey to a deserted wife might do well to get in touch with me.

I was anxious on the first trip to learn what the wronged wife would say first of all. On succeeding notifications I was eqqually curious to note how the first words of the different wives compared.

All three said: "Who is she?"

After that question each showed a little individuality.

One went over to the crib where her little babe lay sleeping and softly sobbed.

Another remarked sadly, without reproach: "We had such a nice time together the last evening he was at home."

The third angrily declared: "Well, if I get hold of him, I think I'll shoot him—and her, too."

But invariably the first thought was to satisfy a natural sense of curiosity: "Who is she?"

When a man is known as fickle and finds a new sweetheart every time he moves to another town, people shake their heads and speak of him as if he were lacking in strength of character. Yet everybody admits that the power of adaptability is one of the best indications of real intelligence. A fickle man is simply one with the ability to adjust himself readily to new conditions. If less fickle, or less adaptable, he might grieve away his life over the absence of one particular girl instead of finding himself new one.

One of the best salesmen I ever knew confided to me when asked for the secret of his success: "I live well within my means, but dress far beyond my means."

I Have Said in My Heart

By IDAH McGLONE GIBSON

EMPLOYES

Just how far do you go in making complaints against an employe to his employer? Every day someone is found who is quite indignant at the way he has been treated by a person who is not only paid for doing a service to his employer's customers, but for being polite while doing it.

Everyone has a feeling more or less that they do not want to have an employe discharged for any slight deviation from duty, but so many men and women have decided that they will do as little as they can and do it with ill grace and I think it is the duty of everyone to insist that a person shall be made to do the thing he contracts to do.

The other day a friend of mine who lives upon a hilltop heard the milkman swearing at her maid. She went out to find that because the maid, who is particularly kindly and careful of the feelings of others, had told this man that she did not want any milk that day, he had asked, "Why in the blankety blank blank didn't you tell me so yesterday? I am not going to climb this hill for nothing."

At this moment the mistress of the house took a hand and tried to explain that she had been out to dinner the night before, and there was a surplus of milk in the ice box. That had no effect upon the irate young rowdy.

"I don't have to climb the hill," he said, "unless you take milk."

"But this is the first time that you have ever been told we did not want milk."

"That makes no difference. When I climb the hill you must take your usual amount of milk."

After he had left my friend called up the manager and told him the circumstances. She was informed that not only she need not take milk, if for some reason she had more than she could use still in her ice box, but she could return the milk that she had ordered if she found she did not need all of it.

Said the manager: "I will see this young man and explain to him just exactly where he gets off."

Evidently something happened, for my friend has a new milkman, and she cited the incident to me, wondering if she did right.

"I'd hate to have the man discharged," she said.

"Of course, one has more or less sentiment in the matter, but why should not a man politely do his duty? Why should not every workman do the thing that he contracts to do?"

It really looks as though we might have a better world if each person should insist that the other fellow must do the thing he promises, all the while remembering to keep our own promises and covenants.

Personally, I have never anyone in this world to make a great success in anything, unless he cheerfully did a little more than he was paid for, but you cannot always make every one understand that.

Memo: Do your own duties conscientiously and see that others keep their contracts with you.

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent.

"Hello! Where did you come from? Where am I?" demanded the boy. But instead of answering him, Mrs. Gray Rabbit sat down hurriedly and held up her paws in a helpless fashion.

"Oh, dear me! I have never had such a scare in all my life! How would you like to come up to your front door and find a perfect stranger sitting on the very threshold? Sitting on the threshold, indeed! Why, you are blocking up the entrance. The very idea of a respectable mother Rabbit being unable to go into her own home.

"Tch! Tch! Tch I feel positively weak—just as though I had not had a cabbage leaf for days. My whiskers are trembling.

"Goodness only knows how long it will take me to get over the shock! Who are you? And why are you here?"

Mrs. Gray Rabbit tried to look very indignant, and only succeeded in looking comical—so comical that Peter had to bite his lip to keep from laughing right in her face. But before he had time to reply Mrs. Rabbit shook one paw at him.

"What are you doing? What are you doing?" cried she. "I demand an explanation!"

"Nothing," stammered Peter, drawing back, startled at this sudden fierceness.

"Nobody has no business to be doing nothing," declared Mrs. Gray Rabbit, decidedly. "Everybody has——"

But the boy interrupted her.

"Pardon me, madam, but that is bad grammer," said he, politely. "You mean——"

"Don't try to tell me what I mean," cried Rabbit, crossly. "I have my opinion of folks that hang around a place where they have no busiiness. Be off with you now!"

"I didn't say I have no business," began the boy, but could get no further.

"OH DEAR ME! I HAVE'NT HAD SUCH A SCARE IN MY LIFE!" MUTTERED MRS GREY RABBIT.

"Well, you haven't—you can't have in my house. I am all tuckered out. 'Tis all I can do to wiggle a whisker, and I have no breath to spend on a Human. Perhaps if I had not worn myself out spring cleaning the house and scouring the cabbge patch I might have more patience with an uninvited guest."

Household Hints

BY MRS. MARY MORTON

Today's menu hint is just an ordinary meal for an ordinary day. Chili con carne makes a good, hearty dish, and this manner of making it may differ from your own. When macaroni is used potatoes may be omitted. The cabbage and apple salad will give crispness to the meal.

Chili Con Carne
Cabbage-Apple Salad
Entire Wheat Bread
Peach Delight Milk

Today's Recipes

Chili Con Carne—One pound macaroni, two pounds hamburg, two cans kidney beans, one can tomatoes, one onion. Cook macaroni until tender, drain, chop onion and simmer with the meat for one-half hour, add tomatoes and beans, add all to macaroni, salt, and simmer one-half hour.

Cabbage-Apple Salad—Shred or chop cabbage quite fine, add half as much chopped apple, a little onion and half as much celery as apple. A little grated carrot adds both to the color and flavor. Mix with your favorite salad dressing.

Fricasee—Means to stew in stock, gravy or sauce. It is a slow method of cooking and is used for poultry, game and some meats.

Suggestions

Oil Cleans All

The cloth moistened with kerosene will clean the kitchen sink, the outside of the teakettle and the top of the stove.

Made Room

A housewife writes: "When baking a pie recently I had my oven full except for a small space which would not hold my pie tin. So I hit upon the scheme of putting in a small pan, inverting same, and setting my pie on that. This saves time and fuel as I could do all my baking at once."

Longer Wear

The economical buy in bed and table linen is halfbleached linen. It is stronger than the bleached linen and will become creamy white in a few washings.

Try Again

When the cream will not whip, add the white of an egg to it. Let both the cream and the egg get thoroughly chilled and try whipping them together.

Grapefruit

Grapefruit may be served as the first course for a dinner or luncheon in the following ways:

1. Prepare several hours before serving. Cut in half, remove core and seeds, fill space with sugar, and chill. When ready to serve add two or three maraschino cherries and a tablespoon of the liquid.

2. Serve each half sprinkled with shaved maple sugar. Maraschino cherries halved may be placed all around the edge, or halved green and red grapes alternating.

3. Remove pulp and sweeten, serve in tall glasses with cocoanut on top.

4. Remove pulp and pour hot chocolate sauce over before serving.

5. Remove pulp; use equal parts of orange pulp and white grapes, peeled, seeded and cut in halves. Sweeten to taste. Add maraschino cherries if desired. Serve in tall glasses.

Behind The Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Sept 30. — The president and "his lady" visit nobody—that is, not as official personages. If they sneak out "incog," now and then, to see some friends they happen to know as mere human beings, that isn't anybody's business.

Mrs. Coolidge drops in thus occasionally, in the most informal way you can think of, on a number of acquaintances she has in Washington.

They aren't particularly nobby people, either — just nice folks, not in society or the official "set" at all, that she likes to sit and knit and chat and have tea with. You can see her special secret service man, almost any pleasant afternoon, loafing and talking with the kids, in front of a northwest side apartment building where you can rent a suite for $60 to $75 a month whenever you want to consult the janitor about the "Flat to Rent" sign he generally has displayed in his basement window.

Believe me, many's the high and mighty Washingtonian who'd trade a whole stack of hand-engraved, gilt-edged White House invitation cards for just one such intimate little call as this.

One of the last things the neighbors remember seeing, before the Coolidges left for the Black Hills, was our well-known secret sevice guy, mooching up and down in font of that distinctly ordinary, un-o'-the-mine apartment shack. One of the first things they noticed, following the presidential family's return to the capital, was that identical sleuth, trying, like any good fly cop, to make himself as inconspicuous as possible in the shadow of the selfsame edifice.

Mr. Coolidge appears to be proof against the temptation to play hookey from the White House as his wife does. Frank Stearns and Attorney General Sargent are his only personal cronies and they come to the executive mansion to see him, instead of enticing him out, on the "q. t.," to their diggings.

For that matter, his wife's chums look in on her, too, once in awhile, without the usual White House fuss and feathers, but she likes to get out, as well.

The head of the family never does — to go anywhere — except officially—even for a walk, with the regular presidential retinue. Mrs. Coolidge's secret service man doesn't count as a retinue. He snoops along in the rear, like an everyday pedestrian. Folks who don't know him, but who do recognize Mrs. Coolidge, quite generally imagine she's unattended—and are surprised at it.

When Mr. Coolidge ventures abroad, he does it as "president." Nobody makes the mistake of supposing he's without a bodyguard.

There have been presidents who, off duty, liked to attend little private parties, which never figured in the newspapers, just as Mrs. Coolidge's informal visits never get into the society columns, but this particular White House tenant either doesn't care for them or has no time to spend that way.

The only visit the Coolidges are on record as having paid, officially, during Mr. Coolidge's term as president, was at the Roumanian legation, when Queen Marie was here. That, of course, was the correct thing, the queen being a royal guest of the country. First she called at the White House, and the White House folks, in due form, returned her call half an hour later.

Some day an exasperated pedestrian is going to wrap himself in barbed-wire and give some motorist the surprise of his life. —Philadelphia Enquirer.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

A LITTLE PREACHMENT

I wonder if I might be permitted just a little bit of preachment, just to rest myself in this business of handing out advice. Do you know, boys and girls, that in reading your letters I can't help feeling that if you would devote some of your time to learning to spell and write gramatically you might help that lonely feeling a good deal.

Suppose you and your friend have quarreled and he—or she—is going out with someone else. Your heart is sore, of course, and you write a letter to this column. You pour out your heart and feel better. Now read your letter critically and see how many grammatical errors you have made and how many words you have misspelled. One girl wrote a "pome" and in it she said that her "pals have all went away." Another says, "I think he has wrote." She also spelled chorus "course." You probably know better, but are careless. Work is a wonderful healer of hurt hearts, and the one bit of philosophy I have salvaged in the years is that you can turn every bit of experience—good or bad—to your own good if you will.

And please don't think that I'm unsympathetic because I have preached a little sermon, will you?

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I'm a brunette 18 years old and considered attractive. I have been going with a boy for some time. He is very handsome and popular. Not many days ago he and I became peeved. It was over loves me, but is just acting this way to see if I am jealous nothing. He hasn't been speaking to me. He doesn't go with anyone else. He is only a friend to everyone. He has always loved me and his folks too. I would love dearly for you to give me your best advice of how I may draw him closer to me.

LONELY AND BLUE."

Don't get easily peeved over nothing, my dear, and that goes for girl friends as well as boys. He'll probably get over his "mad" spell and be back before long.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a girl in my teens. About a year ago I met a boy three years my senior. We went together for a while, then a girl friend tried to break our friendship. He came back and we made up until just a few weeks ago he left for another state. He told me that he loved me dearly and would write to me. It has been about a month since he left but I haven't heard from him. I think he has written to this girl. Oh, what shall I do? I love him and I believe he over this other girl. Please give me your advice and print this so other lovers may know how I feel.

"WORRIED JAKE."

I suppose it wouldn't help a bit to point out that a boy who would tell you he loved you and would write and then wrote to another girl instead, isn't worth worrying about, is it, Jake? It's true, nevertheless. I'd just square my shoulders, smooth away the worry look and find a new friend on whom you can depend. Oh, yes you can. Let the other girl have him if she wants him. Let her do the worrying.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

KEEPING SIGNS OF AGE OUT OF THE EYES AND THE EYE AREA

The eyes are very quick to reveal the age if they are not cared for in the right way. There are women who spend hundreds of dollars each year to preserve a youthful throatline only to have it contradicted by aging eyes.

One of the first places signs of age make their appearance is around the eyes. One squints in the bright sunlight or when facing the wind. Gradually the "squint lines" which come as a result fail to fade away, and you have the beginnnig of crows-feet, those little lines that radiate out from the corners of the eyes. At the first hint of these lines, you should begin a careful treatment of the eye area to keep it smooth, soft and unlined.

Eyelids, too, soon lose their look of youth. The skin that covers them is so tender that it dries out very easily. When it is too dry, the way to wrinkles is paved. Operations are sometimes performed to take the wrinkles out of eyelids, but these would never have to be resorted to if one cared for one's eyes scientifically from an early age, or worked diligently to restore a smoothness and freshness that had been lost through neglect.

One of the first essentials in keeping eyelids young is to be careful in making them up. Strive for a soft finish. It is much more becoming, besides being a protection. This is one reason eye shadow that comes in cream form is particularly good. You should never powder your eyelids, both because it gives them a harsh look and because it dries out the skin. If you do not use eye shadow cream, you can achieve a soft finish by leaving just a faint film of your face cream in the lids and beneath the eyes.

Keeping the eyes rested and in motion is very important in retaining their look of youth, as I told you in an earlier talk. Rested eyes do not pucker up the surrounding area as do those which are suffering strain. However, it is always advisable for a woman, after she reaches the age of 25, to use some definite treatment to counteract the lines which have a tendency to make their first appeaarnce about that age. I always advise finger printing a good, nourishing anti-wrinkle cream around the eyes, to be retained overnight or during your daytime rest period.

You will find the before-dinner treatment, of which I spoke in my talk on relaxation, a great help in preventing lines and in keeping your face from growing dead and lifeless in appearance. Lie down and place a thin strip of absorbent cotton soaked in an astringent anti-wrinkle lotion over your eyes. Retain it for 15 minutes or longer and then remove the compress and pat it all over the face and throat, paying special attention to the area around he eyes.

Babe Ruth Equals 1921 Home Run Record

WRITES CHALLENGE TO PITTSBURGH IN LANGUAGE OF SWAT

Bambino Can Break Record In Next Two Contests

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.— High across the right field wall at the Yankee stadium yesterday George Herman Ruth wrote his challenge to the Pittsburgh Pirates— wrote it in screaming home-run headlines; wrote it in the language of smash and biff!

And what a challenge!

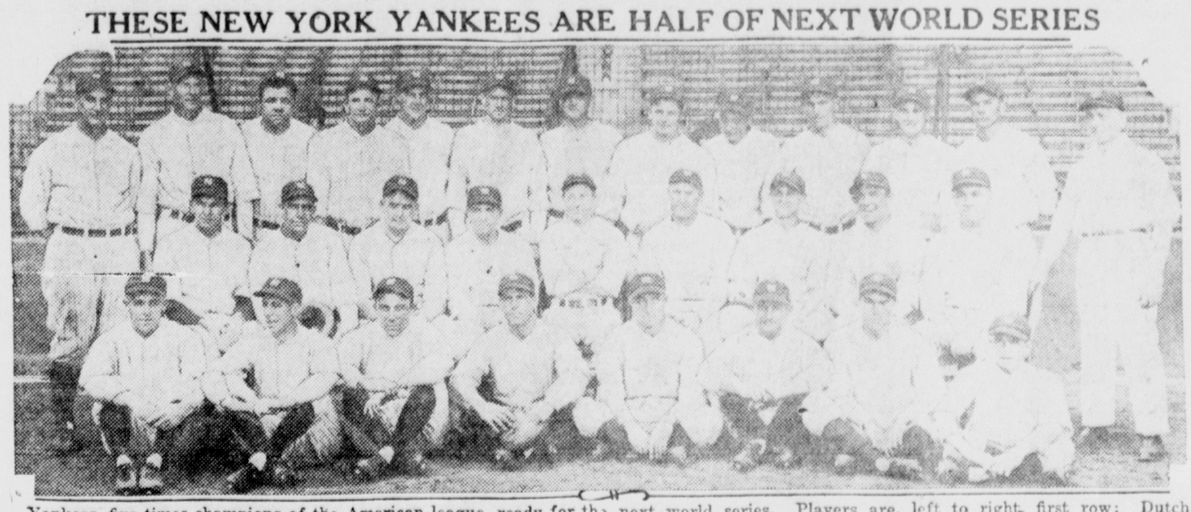

Twice the Bam swung with all his gigantic force and twice he sent home runs screaming into the stands. And now the thing they said couldn't be done has transpired.

This morning the Babe stands alone as the champion of swat. The 1921 record of fifty-nine has been tied. And with two games remaining it's an even money bet that a new home run record will have been set up for posterity to shoot at before the curtain is rung down on the greatest season in the Babe's history.

The high light of the afternoon came when the Babe planted his fifty-ninth homer in the right field stands, and trotted around the bases to a roar that was thunderous. At the plate Lou Gehrig met him, and was first to congratulate him on accomplishing the feat that even Babe feared was impossible. And then all the rest—hopping about like kids, shrieking and yelling and shaking hands.

To tie that 1921 record wasn't easy. Babe went into the last month of the season sixteen home runs behind. No one thought he had a chance. But he kept plugging and yesterday he got that sixteenth that he needed—thereby setting a new record for home runs in a single month. The most he ever had got in a month of play before was thirteen.

H. L. SAYRE MAKES HOLE IN ONE ON XENIA COUNTRY CLUB LINKS

H. L. Sayre, Xenia druggist, became the second member of the Xenia Country Club to join the "Hole-In-One Club" when he sank his tee shot on the 140-yard pitch hole, the short hole on the club's nine hole course, Thursday afternoon.

The hole is No. 2 on the course. Sayre used a mashie in making the "ace." He was playing at the time with William Moorehead, who witnessed the feat.

Sayre enjoys the unique distinction of being the first local golfer to score a hole in one on the course since it was laid out along a new plan.

He is the second Xenian to realize the dream of all golfers. Several years ago C. E. Arbogust, this city, holed out in one shot, and several weeks ago a Chicago man did likewise while on a visit here.

Sayre will receive a loving cup, recently offered by Frank Conable, former Xenian, to any member of the local club making a hole in one.

Sports Done Brown

By NORMAN E. BROWN

The close of every major league season finds many of the outstanding players of the year gazing longingly at the "lucky players" of the world's series participants, so to speak.

Year after year men whose individual efforts entitle them to a place in the sun, find themselves outside the fence because of the failure of their teammates to deliver at the same speed.

This year's list of "unfortunates" includes such players as George Sisler of the Browns, Ted Lyons and Thomas of the White Sox, young Lisenbee of the Washington Senators, Harry Heilmann of the Detroit Tigers in the American league. Every one of the contending teams in the National league boasts several star players who will be in line for "most valuable" honors if they aren't fortunate to get in on the world's series melon cutting.

What a beautiful record Ted Lyons might hang up for a season were he backed by such a team as the Yankees. And Lisenbee? Flirting with twenty victories despite the weak hitting of the Senators. Heilmann, holding for the Detroit Tigers the batting honors that the team has boasted through the reign of Cobb and later, sees his base hits wasted, as far as carrying him into the fall classic is concerned.

Sisler, great first baseman, base runner and batter that he is, has never broken into a world's series. This year, relieved of his managerial worries, he approached his old-time form afield and at bat, but found himself playing once again with a hopeless outfit.

Ethan Nathan Allen, young outfielder, has been playing great guns for the Cincy Reds in the National league free for all. Had the Reds gotten away to an earlier start he might have come in for some of the glory this fall. Eddie Farrell, shifted from the hopeful Giants to the hopeless Braves, deserves mention. Frank Hogan, slugging catcher of the Boston Braves is another.

Most fans recall how Walter Johnson labored beyond the average life-time of a major league pitcher before he enjoyed the sensation of breaking into a world's series and drawing the extra dividends therefrom. Then what a dramatic page in baseball he wrote!

OHIO NORTHERN HAS LIGHT, FAST TEAM

ADA, O., Sept. 30.—Ohio Northern gridders will begin their season this year with several familiar figures in the lineup. Though the Polar Bear outfit may turn out to be a light one, Dr. J. O. Newton, director of athletics, has hopes of producing a speedy and highly effective machine from the available material.

Dr. J. O. "Doc" Newton, head of the department of athletics will personally supervise the backfield coaching. Line coaching on this year's Northern outfit will be handled by Coach "Big Bill" William F. Meredith, former Denison athlete. While at the downstate school he played football in '15, '16 and '19 in the tackle position, as well as serving in the center position on the court squad. He handled the weights in track events and played baseball. In 1917 he played with the 83rd division football team. Meredith graduated from Denison in '20, and since then has coached two years at Norwalk high school, one year at Denison, three at Ashland College, and is now starting on his second at Northern.

MUST HAVE PHOTO ON GRID TICKETS

EVANSTON, Ill., Sept. 30.—A new wrinkle to prevent football ticket scalping was disclosed today by Max K. Hayford, ticket manager at Northwestern University here. He issued anorder whereby every student's ticket must bear a photograph of its owner.

The photographs on the ticket will be compared with the user by the ushers. If there is no resemblance, admission will be denied.

Question of the authority and desirability of censorship of books and other literature by public library officials will be one of the major questions for discussion at the annual meeting of the Ohio Library Association when it meets in Columbus Oct. 11, 12 and 13.

Rev. Harry E. Eversull of the Walnut Hills Congregational Church, Cincinnati, will lead the discussion of censorship. Remembering the furor Elmer Gantry has caused and the difficulties of literary Boston and its censorship committee, it looks as though there might be considerable discussion, possibly even heated discussion.

The librarian's life outside of the library will be the subject of an address by Clarence W. Sumner of the Youngstown Public Library. He will discuss how the library as an active organization can aid other organizations and become an active factor in the life of any community.

On the second and third days of the convention, sectional meetings will be held for groups interested in specialized phases of library work.

A special feature of the convention, Miss Sandoe, county librarian, says, will be redings by Carl Sandburg, poet, who will present a number of river chanteys which he picked up on the lower Mississippi and some of his own poems.

These meetings are open not only to librarians but to trustees of libraries or to any persons interested in what libraries are doing. The Hotel Deshler will be headquarters for the meetings.

Grid Captains

Introducing:
Captain Bill Webster of Yale.

Captain Bill has been skipper of the football team of every school which he has attended, so it was only natural the Elis would confer the honor on him.

He captained Shelton high somewhere in Connecticut. Then Hotchkiss Preparatory saw him boss one of his teams.

Last season Yale looked about for a capable lad to lead the Blue in 1927. Eyes fell on Bill—that was all there was to it.

Yale looks for a better season than last year. In 1926 the Elis lost to Brown, the Army and Princeton. But they defeated Dartmouth and Harvard, which last is the games of games in Eli eyes.

BOUILLON BALLADS

CHICAGO, Ill.—Light opera arias and popular musical hits as rendered on the soup spoons of her husband and a boarder annoyed Mrs. Katherine Getzow, but she held her peace.

However when the pair attempted Beethoven's Ninth Sonata during a recent attack on the consomme she reached for a bowl—

At least that was the story of the two when they exhibited their bumped heads in court. A reconciliation was effected.

YOURS FOR 5c

A Genuine Smoke Surprise —Nothing More to Pay

We won't blame you if you're skeptical. You're always hearing about 5c cigars that are "really worth more." Perhaps you've tried some in your time and have been disappointed.

But listen. Here's a cigar that sold at a higher price for years—and sold big! And if it hadn't made good—hadn't piled up volume sales all those years—the price could never have been brought down to anywhere near a nickel!

We're talking about Havana Ribbon—famous for years—and now 5c. A peach of a cigar regardless of price. Mild and fragrant as they come! Made of ripe tobacco. Try Havana Ribbon. Drop in the nearest cigar store and drag out a nickel. Then forget about the price. Just prepare to enjoy yourself! Light up and look for all you ever wanted in a real cigar.

SWISS GREET LEGIONNAIRES; SAVAGE EXPRESSES THANKS

LUCERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 30.—Howard P. Savage, national commander of The American Legion, in an address at a reception held by the Swiss government in his honor upon the arrival here of 250 Legionnaires and their families on the official post-convention tour of Legion officials, said:

"We of the American Legion have come to charming Switzerland for a holiday; to enjoy your far-famed hospitality; admire your priceless art, your towering and majestic mountains, your peaceful and fertile valleys, and finally take home with us a beautiful thought all these things inspire.

"Completely surrounded in the Great War as you were; bounded on the west by France, on the north by Germany, on the east by Austria and Italy, and on the south by Italy, four nations locked in the struggle of war, two combined against the other two, Switzerland emerged from those years of catastrophe one of the few unmarred beauty spots on the map of Europe.

Looking Back

"Standing as we are today, apart and above those fields of battle on every side, we are able perhaps to look back, as it were, from the viewpoint of a neutral friends of all, and feel a sympathy for all in that conflict which brought our organization, The American Legion, into being.

"This is a holiday for us. A few days ago we completed our serious work in our national convention in Paris. We have visited the graves of our dead comrades. Today we can lay aside for a little while the memories of tragedy and sacrifice. Here there is the peace and beauty that has not been interrupted; and it is appropriate that here we pause in our holiday to renew the pledge in the preamble of our Legion constitution "to promote peace and good will on Earth."

"The American Legion is composed of men and women who served in the armed forces of the United States in the war. We are still in the service of our country by being as good citizens as we tried to be good soldiers and sailors.

Want To Keep Peace

"We want to keep our nation strong and peaceful. We believe that we can help promote goodwill among all people though a better personal and individual understanding of them and they of us. We seek a mutual and sympathetic understanding of their problems and our problems; of the institutions, the thoughts and the hopes of all.

"We are glad we are here. We want to know you better and we want you to know Americans better. While we are enjoying our holiday with you, we also will get from your people a new inspiration to aid us in our work of doing good; of aiding the progress of our communities at home; of teaching our children loyalty to God and County; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy.

"As national commander of The American Legion, I wish to thank you deeply and sincerely, for your welcome to us today."

DETROIT WILL HAVE WORLD'S LARGEST RETAILING STORE

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 30—Detroit is to have the largest retail store in the world.

It will be the new J. L. Hudson Company Building, Detroit's old established firm, plans for which were announced by Richard H. Webber, president.

Both Marshall Field's of Chicago and Macey's of New York, the two great stores now ranking first and second respectively in size, will be eclipsed when the new Detroit building, towering high over Woodward avenue, opens its doors.

The programme for the project is complete. Plans are drawn and contracts let and the actual razing of the building now occupied by the Newcomb-Endicott Company, purchased by the J. L. Hudson Company in January of this year, will begin the first week of October to make way for the new structure. Test borings to determine the foundation requirements have already been made.

The building will occupy the entire ground area of the present Newcomb-Endicott site on Woodward avenue, Grand River avenue east Farmer street, adjoining the present Hudson buildings.

The tower will rise 418 feet above thee sidewalk and 72 feet above the sixteenth story. It will be 47 feet higher than the Eaton Tower.

The new structure will almost double the total floor space of the present Hudson store, given a grand total of more than 1,500,000 feet when completed.

The building will be ready for occupancy in the fall of 1928.

HONOR EVANGELIST ON SIXTIETH BIRTH ANNIVERSARY HERE

Dr. W. E. Biederwolf, evangelist at the First M. E. Church, celebrated his sixtieth birthday Thursday and ministers of the city arranged a dinner in his honor at the Lulu Faye Dining Room, Thursday noon. Places were laid for all ministers of the city, Homer Grimes, singer with the Biederwolf party and Dr. Biederwolf.

The occasion also called for tribute to Dr. Biederwolf at the evening evangelistic service when a huge basket, containing sixty roses, the gift of friends was presented the speaker. Herman Eavey of the chorus choir, presented Dr. Biederwolf a fountain pen and pencil set, as a gift from that body.

Reserve Supplies of Loreco Gasoline

OF NO small importance in the producing, refining and marketing of Loreco Gasoline is the problem of distribution. For, in order that the public may be served without interruption, it is necessary that reserve supplies of Loreco Gasoline and Motor Oil be kept constantly stored at important centers.

From these supply points, known as "bulk stations," tank trucks must operate day in and day out, through rain, snow or mud, to keep the retail service stations operating.

Here, again, the subject of investment is involved. The Louisiana Oil Refining Corporation owns and operates its own bulk stations and tank trucks, thus insuring an unbroken chain of service from the producing wells to the retail station where the autoist may be supplied with Loreco products at any hour of the day, every day in the year.

Ready to drop by noontime

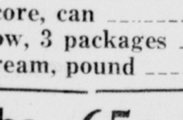

SHE seemed to stay tired—her lightest task too heavy. . . . What was the matter? Why, she used to be full of life and energy! What had stolen her health—had sapped her strength?

Constipation takes awful toll from thousands of men and women. It thieves vitality. It wrecks energy. It destroys beauty and health itself, and often leads to serious disease. Yet it can be so easily relieved! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation—safely and promptly.

ALL-BRAN vs. part-bran

ALL-BRAN has "bulk." This bulk absorbs moisture and carries it throughout the intestines, gently distending them — purifying, removing poisonous wastes. How different from part-bran products—in which the quantity of bulk is so small that there is seldom enough to be effective. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. Because it is 100% bran.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

Contrast healthful ALL-BRAN with habit-forming pills and drugs, which become useless unless the dose is constantly increased! ALL-BRAN is delicious with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey. Let it soak for a few moments to bring out all its rich flavor. Serve it with other cereals. In soups. Try the recipes on every package.

Don't risk a part-bran substitute. Insist on genuine Kellogg's — the original ALL-BRAN. Sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, restaurants—on dining-cars. Made by the Kellogg Company in Battle Creek, Mich. Write for free "Treatise on Constipation."

Dinner Stories

ACCOMMODATING

The preacher was preaching on the lesser prophets. It had been quite a lengthy sermon already, and it wasn't over yet.

Finally, as the end of the third hour approached, the preacher said. "And now we come to Malachi, the last of the lesser prophets. What will we do with Malachi? Where can we place Malachi?"

Just then an old lady in the rear of the church, who was visibly annoyed by the length of the sermon, arose, saying: "You can give him my seat. I'm going home."

LITTLE MOTHER HAPPY-SPENDS DAY IN JAIL BUT WINS FIGHT

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch To The Gazette

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 30.—Odie May McMinn is one of those "little mothers" you read about.

And she is distinctive in another way. She has just lost a fight—and won it, too.

Last week she was down on police records in New Orleans as a kidnaper. But she isn't a kidnaper any longer.

The "little mother's" story is interesting.

"Mothered" Family of Three.

Four years ago Odie May's mother died. It was then that Odie May began her career as a "little mother." Her "family" consisted of her father, John McMinn, tenant farmer of Bolivar County, Mississippi, and her two little sisters, Nola, now 10 and Etoyle, 7.

Odie May wanted schooling. And she wanted her little sisters to have schooling. But schooling in Bolivar County meant tramping a mile through mud to meet a bus then two miles on the bus.

Odie May conceived a plan. To all outward appearances, she quit the "little mother" job. She came to New Orleans and got a job as a salesgirl. She worked and saved for four years.

Disappears with Sisters

Then she went to Bolivar County for a visit with her father and sisters. The morning after she left for New Orleans, her father discovered Nola and Etoyle were missing.

McMinn found out where the three had gone and he filed charges of kidnaping against Odie May. Telegraph wires carry messages in a hurry and in short order Odie May found herself in jail here. Nola and Etoyle were taken to a children's home.

Odie May told her story to interested court officials and when Papa McMinn arrived in New Orleans he was told he could take the little girls back home, but—

He must see that they went to school!

Kidnaping charges against Odie May were dismissed.

"And I am happy," she says. "I just wanted to be sure the little ones got to go to school."

Who's Who and Timely Views

VOLSTEAD VIOLATORS LIKENED TO REDS

By WILLIAM E. BORAH
United States Senator from Idaho

(William Edgar Borah was born at Fairfield, Ill., June 29, 1865. He was educated at Southern Illinois Academy, Enfield, and the University of Kansas. After being admitted to the bar in 1889 he began to practice law at Lyons, Kan., in 1890. Senator Borah has lived at Boise, Idaho, since 1891. He has been United States Senator since 1907 and, as chairman of the foreign relations committee, is one of the most powerful figures in the senate.)

The Red sits in his dimly-lighted room, around his poorly-laden table, and denounces the provisions of the constitution placed there to protect property. The White sits in his brightly-lighted room, about his richly-laden table, and defiles the provisions of the constitution placed there in the behalf that they would protect the home.

I leave it to all good citizens, whether it is not true that both are traveling the road to lawlessness, both sowing the seeds of destruction, both undermining the whole fabric of law and order.

There are organizations in this country dealing with the subjects of anarchy communism and Bolshevism, the men who come to these shores to overthrow the provisions of the constitution protecting property are not so reprehensible to him as the men who, reared in this country, violate the prohibition law.

Let me say here, not all of them, of course, but many of those people of property, many of those who are most agitated over the question of foreign propaganda and its undermining effect on our constitution are the most pronounced, insistent and persistent violators of the Eighteenth amendment.

The hotbed, the scouting, noisy rendezvous of lawlessness, of cynical defiance to the Eighteenth amendment, is among those of social standing, of large property interests, and in the wealthier homes. Without their patronage, their protection and their example the bootlegger could easily be brought within the control of the law.

Let these people of influence who insist on satisfying their appetites against the expressed will of the American people (the senator points out that all but two states ratified the amendment) understand that they cannot have their property secure, that they cannot have their homes safe, that they cannot protect their wealth and those things which they deeply cherish, if they continue by their examples and by their precepts to sow the seeds of lawlessness throughout the United States.

PARTITION ASKED

Suit asking partition of property has been filed in Common Pleas Court by Gertrude Leavell Sutton against Jesse Leavell, Mary Susan Leavell, Sophia Jennings, William Fields and A. W. Cromwell, as executor of the estate of Canada Leavell deceased. Parties to the action are said in the petition to have an interest in the property involved. Marshall and Marshall are attorneys for plaintiff.

MUST PAY ALIMONY

CANTON, O., Sept. 30.—Common Pleas Judge Charles Krichbaum today had ruled that John C. Popovici, Rumanian consul at Cleveland, must pay alimony of $125 per month pending the hearing of his wife's suit for divorce and must also pay $300 immediately. Mrs. Popovici is a former Canton girl.

Judge Krichbaum's opinion is said to be the first decision on record where a state court has maintained action against a foreign consul.

MAC CRACKEN SAYS QUOTED FALSELY

In a letter of inquiry sent by Mrs. C. L. Flatter, executive secretary of the Anti-Cigaret Alliance of America, to Dr. H. N. MacCracken, president of Vassar College, concerning a reported statement of his in which he said "Tobacco is one of the country's most important crops and men can't smoke it all, why shouldn't the women help," Dr. MacCracken through his secretary, answered: "I unequivocally deny that I made the statement that the women should help the men to consume the tobacco crop of the country. What I said was that I had understood that there was more objection to women smoking in those parts of the country where tobacco was raised than in either the extreme east or the extreme west, and the remark in question was interjected by the reporter and was not my own."

DOG DIES ON DUTY

NEW YORK CITY.—Peaches, mascot dog of the Police Rescue Squad No. 3, was trained to leap from the second story of squad headquarters into the arms of a member of the squad when the alarm sounded.

The bell rang the other day and Peaches, true to her training, leaped. But the figure below was not that of a policeman but a pedestrian.

Squad No. 3 is in mourning because the jump was a bit too high for even a police dog.

BRINGING UP FATHER — By GEORGE McMANUS

The Theater

"Society drama" ranks highest as the type of picture most desired by English film fans. "Pie-throwing" however, is greatly enjoyed, or comedians rank a close second, followed by adventure.

This was learned when 30,000 replies to questionnaires were received among moving picture theaters throughout London. Charlie Chaplin has lost his former popularity, and ranks twelfth among the men stars. Ronald Colman is first with Adolph Menjou second. Constance Talmadge heads the list of women, with Laura LaPlante, Norma Talmadge, Mary Pickford and Poli Negri, runners-up.

Twenty important pictures are in course of production at Paramont's West Coast studios. Foremost of the specials is "Beau Sabreur" companion picture to "Beau Geste" which is being made with Gary Cooper, Evelyn Brent, Noah Beery, William Powell, Joan Standing, Mitchell Lewis. Another is "Now We're In the Air" the last nonsense apic co-starring Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton, with Louise Brooks in a featured role. "A Gentleman Of Paris" starring Adolph Menjou has just been finished, as have "One Woman to Another," with Florence Vidor; "The Street Sin" with Emil Jannings, "Sun Kissed" with Pola Negri, and "Figures Don't Lie" with Esther Ralston.

Douglas Fairbanks has finished canera work on "Over the Andes," his latest which was originally announced as ..The Gaucho." The New York premiere has been set for November.

* * *

Editing has been begun on "Sadie Thompson" Gloria Swanson's latest starring vehicle, by United Artists. "Sadie Thompson" is based on W. Somerset Maughan's "Miss Thompson," from which the stage success "Rain," was taken. Raoul Walsh, in addition to wielding the megaphone has the role of "Sergeant O'Hara" the Marine. The cast also includes Lionel Barrymore as "Alfred Davidson," and other stars.

STEPHENSONISM IS DEAD IN INDIANA IS BELIEF OF LEADERS

By BONITA WITT
Staff Writer for Central Press and The Evening Gazette

XVIX.

(This, the final chapter on Indiana's political upheaval, looks into the future.)

Suppose David C. Stephenson, once the most powerful political figure in Indiana, now incarcerated in the state prison at Michigan City, does succeed in obtaining his freedom? What changes will he find?

Politicians are convinced he never again can wield the dictatorial power which once was his.

Attorney General Arthur Gilliom, opposed by Stephenson, elected to succeed the attorney general who told Ed Jackson, then secretary of state, he would have to issue a charter to the Klan under Stephenson.

A Waning Power

Meanwhile Indiana is awaiting the outcome of the investigation started by the gray-haired publisher, Thomas Adams, of Vincennes, and William H. Remy, boyish Marion County prosecutor, who says when this Stephenson affair is ended he will tuck a copy of Keats under his arm, go away for a rest, and write poetry. Although Remy has been ill, he hopes to resume his part in the grand jury room, where the third grand jury is reviewing the stacks of evidence. Both sides have expressed themselves as "well satisfied" with the present grand jury.

Indiana Ready for Change

Indiana, as one citizen put it, "is sick and tired of the whole affair." If Stephenson actually "has the goods" on any officials, the people want to know it, let the charges fall where they may—if the prosecutor finds 'Steve' really has nothing to tell, they want the affair dropped and a new regime begun in the hope that Indiana some day will be able to erase the series of black marks chalked against her in the eyes of the nation.

One of the Indiana writers, Meredith Nicholson, who is actively interested in political science, said to the writer: "Out of all this disgrace and political governmental control which has burdened Indiana in the past we believe some good is certain to come. The people are disgusted with the happenings of the past years. Those of us interested in improving the state are hopeful of the fine step taken by Indianapolis by the adoption of the city manager form of government. It was the women who stuck with us and secured the passage of the amendment. It was the most splendid and courageous fight women have made since suffrage was granted them. If they continue to do battle with us in the future Indiana will come out all right!"

PLAN OPPORTUNITY SCHOOL CAMPAIGN

Plans for the Opportunity School "drive" October 11, were laid at the meeting of officers of the Federated Parent-Teacher Association, at the home of the president, Mrs. C. A. Weaver, W. Market St., Thursday afternoon.

Xenians are urged to keep the date of the drive in mind and to support it generously. Members of the P.-T. A., are anxious to make this year's campaign a success, because of the large amount of good done with the money obtained last year, in feeding and clothing needy children of the city.

JOHN MOORE, New York business man, goes to Tucson, Ariz., on business, expecting to return to New York the next day. He meets a college associate, Philip Morton, who has business in Mexico. Both drink heavily of tequilla and in the subsequent mixup in identity Moore finds himself in Mexico.

He has in his possession a portrait of a girl which had been Morton's. The girl, Ruth Henshaw, sends her ambassador, Ramon, to tell the supposed Morton that she will meet him at the church at Tubutama. She needs his help. He meets her, also Clench, an associate of her uncle's, and all go to the ranch.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN.

"If you want some tequila—" began Clench.

"Thanks. No. I might wake up somewhere else."

Clench was still pondering this statement when they passed the sunken swimming pool, its waters brazen in the sun, and mounted the steps to the porch. But once inside the big central living room he sank into an easy chair and gave it up.

"No stopee, you. No stopee, you," Wong commanded, beckoning imperiously to John who was lingering to look about him. "Disaway, disaway!" He held open a door leading to the right as he spoke and John obediently preceded him through it.

"At least you know what you want," grinned John. He found himself in a big dim bedroom lighted only by barred windows eight feet above the floor.

Wong shuffled quickly past him and held open a door on the far side of the room. "Come on, come on. I show you!" he droned querulously.

They passed through a second bedroom, then a bathroom and then into still another bedroom. Each time Wong opened the doors and closed them carefully after him.

"This house could withstand a siege from without or within," thought John. "No windows—except those barred skylights. No windows even on the garden side. Just great doors reinforced with iron; bolted top and bottom and in the middle."

In the last room Wong put down the suit case and set about unbolting the porch door. This accomplished, he opened the door and peered out along the porch and down into the garden.

John, watching him idly, wondered what he was looking for.

Leaving the door ajar, Wong slipped to a door in one corner, jerked it open quickly and revealed an empty clothes closet. Apparently satisfied with his inspection he reclosed the door and slipped noiselessly across to a door diagonally opposite. He turned the handle but the door did not open. Bolts held it fast. He slipped the bolts without a sound and stood peering upward into darkness.

"He is not looking for anything. He is listening," thought John, and moved that he, too, might look through the doorway.

At the sound of his step Wong turned swiftly. Seeing only John he held up his hand for silence.

Second after second the two men stood immovable, straining at attention. John's eyes growing more accustomed to the gloom, discovered a spiral stairway ascending just beyond the door. "That," he thought, halting as one is apt to do when listening intently, "is the stairway to the end tower. What on earth is the old chink trying to hear?"

Wong shut the door again and rebolted it. Then he slipped back to the bathroom door by which they had entered and hovered there, listening.

"By Jove! He's beginning the round all over again," thought John. Aloud he said, "Look here! Ghosts don't fly in the middle of the afternoon. What's worrying you? Let me in on this."

Wong shuffled forward until he stood face to face with John and only a foot away from him. The two stared at each other, each striving to pierce the other's mask. The face of the old Chinaman was no more inscrutable than Poker-Face Moore's.

Then suddenly Wong's yellow parchment face crinkled in many directions and a genial illumination shone through the cracks. He was smiling. "You lika de Missy fine. Yaas," he whispered.

"I—what?"

"You lika de Missy fine—yaas, yaas, you do! Sure you do!" Wong urged.

"The Missy? You mean Miss Henshaw?"

"Sure, sure. Lik 'em fine, yaas?" The little black eyes were eager, insistent.

"What in—yes," answered John Moore slowly. "What then?"

Wong gave a quick glance about him, then he swayed nearer to John. "Take Missy way queek, queek!" he whispered.

"Why?" asked John Moore.

"Dey gone now. By-em-by dey come back. Tak' Missy queek. Tak' 'em far so bad man no can get."

The Ambassador—and now this urgent old Chinaman! What evil thing hid within this house?

"Listen," said John Moore. "She won't go now. But when I go I will take her with me."

"When I am ready to go," replied John confidently, "I will go. And I will take your Missy with me!"

Wong dropped his eyes. "No can go," he muttered. "No can go." Like a shadow he slipped out the porch door and was gone.

"He seemed darned sure of that," John mused. "I wonder just how many ways there are of getting out of this place? It might be nearly as difficult to get out as to get in. I'll find out."

In the living room he found Clench asleep in his chair.

John found what he sought quickly enough. On either side of the huge fireplace were two great brass studded doors. He crossed to the nearest one and unbolted it.

Clench awoke with a start.

"I am taking a turn to stretch my legs," said John. "This door opens outside the garden, doesn't it?"

"Sure," yawned Clench. "But they never use it. I'll lock it after you. I think I'll take a nap. Just knock hard if you come back this way."

"What about the gates down below?"

"They aren't locked until night."

"All right," said John, stepping over the threshold. "See you later."

The door clanged to behind him and he heard the bolts shot home.

Diet and Health

BY LULU HUNT PETERS, M.D. AUTHOR OF "DIET AND HEALTH" AND "DIET FOR CHILDREN"

My Dear Followers:

When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to enclose a STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose TEN cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, NOT OVER 200 WORDS, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice.. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED ENVELOPE if you expect me to send you the information I have offered. — Lulu Hunt Peters.

ACNE (PIMPLES)

I know a splendid woman who, though very successful in her work, every once in a while gives evidence to me of an inferiority complex. She is very good-looking now, but when she was a girl she had a very bad case of acne, and I believe that her inferiority complex is an aftermath of the long period in her life when she was self-conscious and unhappy on account of her acne.

Different investigators have found that there is always associated with acne a rod-shaped germ which is called acne bacillus. But, as in other germ disorders, there are some special conditions which favor their development.

This special condition is furnished in youth at the time when there is great developmental activity of all the tissues of the body—at adolescence Nature sometimes unfortunately overdoes things at this period and may overdo the activity of the sebaceous or oil glands, causing excess oiliness of the skin This excess oil ma yharden in the skin, and plugs will form which attract the dust and become blackheads (comedones). These block the pores and the acne germs and pus is formed under them.

You can see from this that keeping the blackheads from forming would be a part of the treatment.

Improper diet may be the chief underlying cause of acne, and it certainly is most active in aggravating it. All candy ,rich desserts, and all greasy and fried foods should be eliminated entirely from the diet. And if you are a heavy white bread or cereal eater, you must cut down on these also. You will find an immediate improvement as soon as you regulate your diet. Thorough mastication is very important. Drink liberally of water.

You should have a good bowel movement every day, so you must eat plenty of green vegetables and fruits and some cereal bran or agaragar, if necessary. If you haven't reached maturity yet, you should have the equivalent of three glasses of milk a day. (Two glasses will be sufficient if you are mature.) You can take it as a drink or in simple custards, soups, etc.

It occasionally happens that milk seems to agravate acne. But I believe that in those cases it is due to overheating rather than to the milk, and cutting out sweets and excess starches will lower the diet sufficiently to allow milk. Milk is the most important growth food, and you must satisfy your growth needs. No tea, coffee, cocoa, alcohol, tobacco or spices allowed.

You must stop doing anything that you know lowers your health. You must keep yourself thoroughly clean, physically, morally and mentally. Do you understand? You must get some good physical exercise so that your circulation will be improved. If you are underweight you must gain by gradually eating more wholesome food, getting more sleep and rest; and if you are overweight you must gradually reduce.

If it is possible, you should put yourself under the care of a skin specialist, for your condition sometimes requires special and careful treatment, possibly the X-rays or the ultra-violet rays. (Expose your face to the sun and air as much as you can for these ultra-violet rays.)

LEAGUE SPONSORS DAY NURSERY FOR COLORED BABIES

A day nursery, where colored mothers of the city may leave their children while they go out to work, was opened last Monday at the home of Mrs. Rozelia Washington, 935 E. Second St.

The nursery has been made possible through civic interest of individuals, the Social Service League and other charity workers and is a fulfillment of the long-felt need by the colored mothers who work. A room in the Washington home has been fitted into an attractive nursery, where the children may spend the day playing and receiving the proper care.

Money needed to fit up the room was donated by a Xenia man and the beds, curtains and all furniture have been donated. The room has been done over into bright, cheery colors and the walls are decorated with nursery pictures. All belongings of the children are marked with an individual tag and games and toys are being furnished for the tots' amusement.

Some of the children are in Mrs. Washington's care all day and others only for a few hours. As high as fifteen are cared for some days and the number diminishes other days. Mrs. Washington has been caring for children in the neighborhood the past year and when her work was discovered by people interested the room was fitted up and other arrangements made for the chilren's proper care. Money needed for the nursery in the future, it is hoped, will be obtained through individuals or organizations interested in the work to be handled through the Social Service League.

BABE ABANDONED

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 30.—Leaving his church study at a late hour last night, Rev. Ferdinand C. Blanchard noticed a white bundle in the rear seat of his automobile which was parked nearby. It proved to be a baby girl, only a few hours old, wrapped in a sheet. The infant has been turned over to a hospital. There is no clue to its identity.
